EMILIE.

Mrs. Beck, of Trenton, has been visiting Mrs. Blian the past week.

Miss Painter, of Philadelphia, is spending the summer with Miss Dora Lovett.

Owing to the severe storm on Sunday there were no services in the M. E. Church.

The failure of wheat and other crops has induced farmers to try barley. Several fields are noticed in this vicinity.

A large field of flax with its myriads of blossoms, vying with the summer's sky, is a novelty in the way of farming on the farm of Edward Sientz.

The new store of this place, managed by Mr. Jennings, of Bristol, is greatly appreciated by the people and is receiving a fair share of patronage.

Next Sunday being Children's Day at the Emilie Church, Pastor Randall will preach in the morning to the children on "The American Flag" and will present each child with a copy of our national hymns, including music. A patriotic song service, together with the reading of the Declaration of Independence will be conducted at the evening service.

FALLSINGTON.

Independence Day will be very quietly observed in this place.

Paul Brown is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown.

Mrs. Saylor, of Lancaster, is visiting her son, Evan Saylor, of this place.

Mrs. Edward Keeley, of Philadelphia, is the guest of Mrs. Elizabeth Haines.

Joseph Brandenburg, of Washington, D. C., is visiting his aunt, Miss Annie Franklin, of this place.

A lawn tennis court has been located in the P. E. rectory grounds by some of the young people of the chapel.

Mrs. Ida Hatcher and daughter leave on Thursday for Atlantic City, where they will spend the summer with the former's mother, Mrs. Emma Lockwood.

The regular 7.30 p. m. Sunday services at All Saints' P. E. Chapel have been discontinued for the summer and instead a short service without music, is held at 6.30 p. m.

The camp of the Tacony Rifles in lower Falls has been visited by some of our citizens and the soldier boys came in for praise for their soldiery bearing. Camp McKinley, as it is termed, has been unfortunate in having a lot of rain that has interfered somewhat with the regular routine, but Captain Graham and his men have entered into their work with enthusiasm.

LOWER BENSALEM.

C. S. Vandegrift attended the Democratic Convention at Erie.

The Cornwells and Andalusia schools closed Wednesday of last week.

The ladies of the Eddington Presbyterian Church will give a mid-summer tea on the church lawn on July 18.

Mrs. A. W. Reynolds, Miss Florence and Master Walter Reynolds were visiting relatives in Bridgewater, Tuesday.

The scholars and teacher, Miss Kramer, of Andalusia primary school, spent Wednesday afternoon of last week at Torresdale Park.

Edward Paist, after several weeks illness, died at his home in Cornwells, Thursday afternoon, June 26. The interment was made at Parkesburg, Lancaster, Pa.

A game of base ball was played Saturday afternoon on the field opposite the Presbyterian Church by the Y. M C. A. and Holmesburg teams with a score of 15 to 6 in favor of the Holmesburg team.

The Eddington school closed Tuesday of last week. The scholars had a lunch on the school lawn. The school was in charge of Miss Reynolds the last month, Miss Blaine having been called to the home of a dying sister.

CORNWELLS.

Frank Ott is ill with typhoid fever at his home in Cornwells.

There will be two games of base ball here on Fourth of July, one in the morning and one in the afternoon.

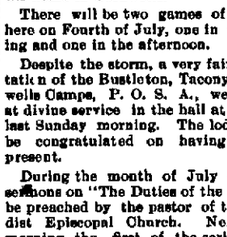
Despite the storm, a very fair representation of the Bustleton, Tacony and Cornwells Camps, P. O. S. A., were present at divine service in the hall at Cornwells last Sunday morning. The lodges are to be congratulated on having so many present.

During the month of July a series of sermons on "The Duties of the Pew" will be preached by the pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Next Sunday morning the first of the series will be given, "Labor, Working for the Master." Service at 10.45. 'A New Declaration of Independence" will be the subject of the evening sermon. A cordial invitation to all. One hour's service of an interesting, helpful character.

Edward Paist died on Thursday at his late residence in Cornwells. Mr. Paist was born at Lower Merion, Montgomery county, May 19, 1844. For some time he was proprietor of the Sadsbury Woolen Mills and from 1882 to 1885 he served as clerk of the courts of Chester county. He was well known in Chester county, where he resided for many years. The funeral took place on Monday, interment being at Parkesburg, Chester county.

The 8 Hour Day

Which the working man has fought for and succeeded in obtaining is something the wife has no share in. Her day begins before his and ends long after it, as a rule, and many a night her rest is broken by the baby's fretfulness. The healthiest woman must wear out under such a strain. What can be expected then of those women who are weakened by womanly diseases?



Women who are weak, worn-out and run-down will find new life and new strength in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Sick people are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I suffered with female weakness about eight years—tried several doctors but derived no benefit until I began using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. John Green, of Danville, Boyle Co., Ky. "This medicine was recommended to me by other patients. I have taken six bottles and I feel like another person."

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription," is only seeking to make the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss. Refuse all substitutes.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

NEWPORTVILLE.

Willie Jackson, of Tacony, is on a visit to his uncle, Edward G. Betz.

It is authoritatively stated that the trolley road (surface built) will be completed this week from the Newportville road to the Croydon power house.

Thomas Felix, who saw service in the Philippine war for three years, was visiting in this place on Saturday and Sunday. He is now employed by S. L. Allen & Co., of Philadelphia.

The West Bristol township correspondent makes note of "the kid-glove farmer" and his coachman making war on canines near his abode. It was a noticeable fact that when the assessor was on his grounds, dogs were very scarce indeed. Probably they were on a visit to relatives.

We had a very stormy Sunday. Rain came down in torrents and puddles of water lay in the road almost deep enough for ducks to swim in. Corn and other vegetables were driven to the mother earth, but will bob up again serenely like M. S. Quay when the times arrives.

Farmers are very busy just now gathering in their hay crop, which will be very light in a great many instances. Grain is getting ripe and will be a fair crop. It looks nice in print to read about riding in the new mown hay, but a different thing when you help to gather it when the thermometer is about 90 or 95 degees in the shade.

John Buckman, a well-known farmer, who lived above Hulmeville, was buried in Beechwood Cemetery on Saturday last. Several years ago when Mr. Buckman farmed near Langhorne, a cyclone destroyed all his out-buildings and his house also was demolished. Mrs. Buckman and children, during the storm, ran into the cellar of the home and although badly frightened were not injured in any way. Some of their household effects were carried several miles by the severe gale.

The Newportville base ball team and a nine composed of players from Hulmeville and Eden played a game of ball in what is known as Asay's meadow on Saturday afternoon last. The score was 18 to 10 in favor of the visitors. The home team did not have all of their players which handicapped them somewhat. Jesse C. Everitt made a catch with one hand, and left hand at that, which would do credit to a professional. It was the finest of the season and he was loudly applauded, but he did not take off his cap.

It is with sorrow and regret that we write of the death of Mrs. Frank Hampton, who resided near Midway, along the Langhorne and Bristol trolley line. The deceased had been ill a brief time and her death came unexpectedly. Deceased leaves a husband and several children to mourn her loss. Mrs. Hampton is a sister of the late Jesse Knight, of Hulmeville, Taylor, Aaron and Augustus Knight. Mrs. Hampton was a kind mother, an affectionate wife and a good neighbor and the family have the sympathy of the community in their sad affliction.

Hampton Rice has announced his candidacy for State Senator. Senator Rice has made a record for himself, this we cannot dispute. He believes in minority rule, is an aristocrat, and we would suggest that he should go to England and get into the House of Parliament, if they will have him. He and Capt. Edwards will draw up their insurgent army and march through the county to the tune of "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground." Ex-Sheriff Aaron, of Yardley, and George W. Strauser, of Bristol, who believe in majority rule and who are both Americans, will form their stalwart army and will sweep the state to the tunes of "Hail Columbia, Happy Land," and "I Knew it Because My Mother told me so."

Well, the Governor of our Keystone state and, lot's see, yes—Mr. Elkin, are both "wid us." We quote the following from a Pittsburg letter of the 26th inst: "I will take the stump during the coming State campaign and Attorney General John P. Elkin will also do so. The battle this fall will be fought out on party principles. There will be no especial issues that I know of. It will be the Democrats against Republicans to a finish fight. The Republican party has practically been in power since 1896. Its government has been a wise one. The business men of the United States have unlimited confidence in the party principles and they don't want a change. The Republican State ticket will win of course. Judge Pennypacker and State Senator Brown are far stronger than the Democratic nominees and they will have no trouble in securing an overwhelming victory."

PENN VALLEY

Miss Clare W. Lovett is the guest of Miss Sophie D. Glover, of Vailsburg, N. J.

Miss Charlotte Alston, of Washington, D. C., is spending the summer at John Lewis'.

Miss May Fabian, of Trenton, and Washington Weaver, of Philadelphia, were Sunday visitors at John W. White's.

Miss Fannie E. White, Miss Edna F. White, Miss Clara M. Dickel and Harry C. Dickel attended the alumni banquet at Morrisville on Friday night.

Notwithstanding the threating conditions of the weather the Penn Valley Sunday school picnic was, as usual, a successful event. And now, as that is over, the next thing in place will be the lawn fete. Watch the Penn Valley news in the Gazette so that you will not miss this treat.

Owing to the continued storms on Sunday, there were no services at the Penn Valley Church. Next Sunday morning Rev. E. Kelemayer, of Penn Valley Church, will preach on the subject, "An Important Thou Shall Not." In the evening he will preach on the subject, 'God's Wonderful Provision for Man." All are cordially invited.

The Moors are inveterate coffee-drinkers, and Smitken states that their sight begins to fail at the age of forty or forty-five, and many are blind at fifty. The number of blind in the streets of Fez is impressive, and excessive use of coffee is always given as the cause.

Clothing.

Will you look at our stock of clothing? Some facts. Look at these prices: Men's suits, black cheviot, $5.00—good value. Mixed cheviots, $7 75, worth $8.00; $7.00, worth $9.00; $8.00, worth $10.00; $10.00, worth $12.50; $12.00, worth $15; $13.00, worth $18.00. Spring overcoats, $10, This is our price; why pay $12 in the city for the same style coat? You had better save this $2. Also a full line of boys' and childrens' clothing. Hats, caps, and gent's furnishing goods. Johnson Bros., Cor. Mill and Wood srteets, Bristol, Pa.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; in nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Special Correspondence from Near-by Towns

DOYLESTOWN.

The fifth anniversary of the dedication of Salem Reformed Church was observed on Sunday by a special sermon by the pastor, Rev. James R. Bergey, and music by the choir. Owing to the bad weather many were were unable to attend but the occasion was none the less interesting.

About 25 Doylestown storekeepers have entered into an agreement to close their shops at 6 o'clock on Tuesday and Thursday evenings during the hot weather. The plan was tried last year with advantage to the storekeepers and clerks and without inconvenience to customers. All sorts of establishments have entered into the compact.

Patrick B. Trainor, of Doylestown, former Deputy Clerk of the Quarter Sessions under Clerk Patrick Breen, is a candidate for that office. In the matter of capability, Mr. Trainor answers every requirement and would make a most careful and efficient clerk, which statement, his record as Deputy will bear out. His candidacy therefore adds an excellent name to the list of Republicans available for this office.

The failure of Town Council to grant the Doylestown and New Hope trolley company right of way in the borough has compelled the company to secure extension of time at New Hope and in Salebury and Buckingham townships. The public is at a loss to comprehend why council delays in the matter as another company to which this franchise was accorded has failed to take any steps toward consructing their road.

The town was pretty much occupied with school matters last week. The commencement exercises took place Thursday evening last preceded Class Day exercises and followed by the junior reception to the graduates. The class comprised fourteen boys and girls and the commencement exercises were unusually interesting. The directors have elected Arthur Phillips, a graduate of Lafayette College, to take the principalship made vacant by Prof. Martin's election as County Superintendent. Mr. Phillips was assistant principal at Pen Argyl High School for a time and also acted as assistant pastor of the Doylestown Presbyterian Church last summer. Miss Miriam B. Raike, of Doylestown, has been elected teacher in the secondary department to fill vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Casselberry. There was a large number of applicants for the position of principal. The board reduced the salary from $100 to $85 a month.

Rev. Edward M. Jefferys, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church preached his last sermon in that capacity on Sunday and will go to Cumberland, Maryland, where he will become rector of one of the oldest churches in the state. Rev. Mr. Jefferys has been remarkably successful here. He was esteemed by all classes. He is an earnest worker, thoroughly devoted to his calling and most democratic and impartial in his relations with his congregation. He exercised a pronounced influence over our young people and when the last service was held on Sunday there was evidence of unaffected grief on the part of his congregation. It was equally painful to Rev. Mr. Jefferys to realize that his work here had come to an end. He was impelled by conscientious motives to seek a larger field for he will have much more work to do with little if any difference in salary. While here Rev. Mr. Jefferys established the free reading room for boys and in many other ways exercised an influence for good. His departure is a matter of regret with the entire community.

Horace Fackenthall, well-known to every citizen of the county who has had much business to transact in the Court House, died at his home here early Wednesday morning of last week, aged 50 years. Mr. Fackenthall was attacked with diabetis and began to fail in health some months ago. For many years Mr. Fackenthall has been employed in the various row offices, holding a Deputyship at various times. He was thoroughly familiar with the Orphans' Court and Register's offices and could also lend a hand in the others when necessary. Of general and obliging disposition he made many friends and was highly esteemed in this community. He was a prominent Odd Fellow and held various offices in the organization during the past 25 years. His mother and a brother, Jerome Fackenstrall, Esq., survive. The funeral took place on Friday last at Salem Reformed Church, of which Mr. Fackenthall was a member. Services at the grave were conducted by the Odd Fellows.

Prof. E. E. Faville, Dean of the National Farm School, has received from the Board of Managers of that institution a letter expressing the regret felt at his departure and praising most highly his efficient administration as Dean. It was owing to his ability and devotion to the school that it has thus far met with success in the purpose for which it was founded.

Bird's Eye Maple.

What is bird's eye maple? That is a question which just now seems to be baffling not only people who use furniture made of this particular wood, but even woodworkers themselves. In a recent number of a woodworking magazine an article was published which stated that bird's eye maple was not a peculiar maple, but simply ordinary maple cut in a certain way. In a recent issue of the New York Sun that statement is refuted. It is there stated, on the authority of a woodworker, that bird's eye maple and curly maple are both cut only from the logs of the rock maple tree, Acer saccharinum, in which a beautiful lustrous grain is produced by the sinuous course of the fibers. This tree is not at all the common hard maple. It is a hard maple, but is full of little gnarls called eyes. Men looking for bird's eye maple logs go through the standing timber and pick out the bird's eye maple trees, paying for them from $30 to $50 a thousand feet in the woods. Ordinary hard maple logs are worth only from $6 to $7 a thousand feet. It would be impossible to cut a piece of veneer with eyes in it from a common hard maple log, and would be equally impossible to cut a bird's eye maple log, no matter how you cut it, so that it would not show the eyes.

Bison are increasing in such proportions in Canada that they promise to become again fairly abundant. Some time ago their extinction was threatened.

Wanted!

We would like to ask, through the columns of your paper, if there is any person who has used Green's August Flower for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Liver Troubles that has not been cured—and we also mean their results, such as sour stomach, fermentation of food, habitual costiveness, nervous dyspepsia, headaches, despondent feelings, sleeplessness—in fact, any trouble connected with the stomach or liver? This medicine has been sold for many years in all civilized countries, and we wish to correspond with you and send you one of our books free of cost. If you never tried August Flower, try one bottle first. We have never known its failing. If so, something more serious is the matter with you. Ask your oldest druggist.

PERR'S MANOR.

Most of the farmers have quit cutting asparagus for this season.

Theodore Sterling made a business trip to Philadelphia on Monday.

Miss Rose Patton, of Philadelphia, is the guest of Mrs. M. Nesly.

John Brooks, Jr., is confined to the house with tonsilites and malarial fever.

Mrs. John Appenzeller, of Philadelphia is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Appenzellar.

Mrs. Spencer Buckman and Miss Vera Brooks, of California, arrived here on Tuesday to make an extended visit with their relatives here.

Turnip seed is all cut and housed and the most of it will have to be delivered by the 12th of this month. The frequent rains of late makes it quite difficult to house the hay in condition, even if there is but a short crop.

A private, but beautiful event took place on Wednesday, June 25, at 1 o'clock p m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry, when their daughter, Miss Bessie, was given in marriage to Paul Bickelmaier, of New York City. Only their near relatives and a few of their selected friends witnessed the solemn ceremony, which was conducted by Rev. Robert Hetherington, of Philadelphia, after which all were ushered into the dining room where an inviting table was set, loaded with appetizing eatables, to which all felt like doing justice. Mr. and Mrs. P. Bickelmaier went on an extended wedding tour. They slipped away from their friends without the shower of rice, etc., at such occasions. Many valuable and useful presents were left on a table for the bride.

LANGHORNE.

A new barn has been erected on his premises y Pierson M. Candy.

The Bellevue hotel has opened for the summer under the auspies of Miss C. Wilson, of Philadelphia.

Miss Gussie Saxton has resigned her position of chief operator for the Standard Telephone and Telegraph Company at their Newtown exchange, and will accept a clerkship at the club house of the Bucks County Country Club. Her successor is Miss Florence Sherman, formerly first assistant.

Dr. P. M. Minster expects to get possession of the old bank property this week, and will at once proceed to lower the floors of that portion of the building which he intends to use for a drug store. The improvements to be made will add much to the appearance of the property. On the second-floor a telephone exchange will be opened, which will add another advantage to our town.

The new and very handsome banking house of the People's National Bank, at Langhorne, was formally opened Saturday afternoon, when a general inspection of the fine structure was made by the many patrons and friends of the institution, who expressed themselves as much pleased with Langhorne's newest business structure. The gray stone building is 33 by 45½ feet and is finished entirely in hard wood. The arrangements for depositors are very convenient, the space outside of the enclosure being well arranged. The enclosure occupies quite two-thirds of the available room and at one side there is an open passageway leading back to the finely-finished directors' room in the rear of the building. The large vault, of the latest construction, is finished on the outside with white enameled brick, adding to the light effect of the room. The outer door of the vault is provided with twenty-four bolts, while the arrangement of the inner door is likely to prove puzzling to the chance burglar. Upstairs is an open gallery and on one side of the building a fire proof room for the storage of old books and documents for which there is not room downstairs. The officers of the bank are: president, Henry C. Parry; vice-president, Henry Palmer; cashier, Gove Mitchell; assistants, Horace G. Mitchell, Henry J. Briggs and William Longshore.

Pointers to Fruit Growers.

Professor John Craig, of Cornell University, gave the following information to fruit growers in an address delivered before the last meeting of the Maryland Fruit Growers' Association:

"I do not think there is antyhing in the whole line of orcharding which approaches in importance the matter of maintaining the fetility of the orchard soil. Ten or twenty years ago this was not much thought about. Orchards were planted, and the owners called on the climate and good luck generally to bring them returns. But that day has passed, and with the advent of the spray pump and other orchard essentials has also come the necessity of some system of soil management which shall maintain the fertility of the land and adequately feed the tree. There are several systems of farm mangement.

"Some of our newspapers have been expatiating on the success of a New York orchardist, who practices mulching instead of clean cultivation. Instead of cultivating the ground he allows the grass to grow, cuts it and leaves it on the ground. It rots there and returns humus to the soil.

"There is another system which keeps the orchard clean throughout the season by frequent harrowing and much working of the soil. There are other methods. For instance, there is the man who is a strong advocate of keeping sheep in the orchard. He has a special type of sheep, which never take the bark off the trees and crop the grass closely and fertilize the ground, and he thinks that in this way he is able to raise mutton and fruit on the same ground to the mutual advantage of both."

Cheaper Gas.

Bordentown Register tells us that the South Jersey Gas, Electric and Traction Company has more than twenty-five miles of its twelve-inch wrought iron pipe line completed and expects by July 1 to supply Bordentown, Burlington, Beverly, Edge water Park and Delanco with gas from the Trenton plant. It is the intention to have the lines between Trenton and Camden, Woodbury and Gloucester completed by August 1. Consumers who are now paying from $1.50 to $1.75 in towns between these terminals will have their gas rate reduced to $1.25 when these lines are finished.

On good authority it is learned that the company is planning to extend a pipe line to Princeton, when the gas rate will be $1.25 instead of the price of $1 80, thus giving the inhabitants of the college town gas at the same rate as the cities and towns south of Trenton.

Engineers are now looking over the ground preparatory to drafting plans to furnish Bristol with gas at the reduced rates.

The late Cecil Rhodes admired "Vanity Fair" more than any other work of fiction. However, he inclined more to the reading of serious works. He almost knew Gibbon by heart, and he was especially fond of Carlyle and Froude.

Polo is probably the oldest of athletic sports. It has been traced to 600 B. C.

WEST BRISTOL TOWNSHIP.

Hargrave's circus passed through Croydon on Tuesday.

Charles Mintzer, Jr., visited Philadelphia, on Friday.

Jonathan P. Vandegrift, of Bridgewater, has opened a bicycle repair shop.

Miss Hutchinson, of Philadelphia, is spending a week with Mrs. Henry Jones.

Mr. Schrapp, of Philadelphia, was a guest of Charles Mintzer, Jr., on Sunday last.

Miss Mary H. Kessler spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives in Philadelphia.

Miss Edmundson, of Philadelphia, is spending several days with Mrs. Frances Mintzer.

How many have noticed the beautiful sunsets we can see by taking the trouble to look?

Mr and Mrs. Duffield enjoyed a visit from their son of Philadelphia on Thursday night.

John Malcomb, of Philadelphia, is spending his vacation with his aunt at China Hall.

Mrs. Joseph Vandegrift and daughter visited friends in Princeton, N. J., on Wednesdy last.

Mrs. Thomas Duffield, of Locust Lawn, spent Monday last in the City of Brotherly Love.

William Elzey, the fence maker of the Township, is still busily engaged, building fence for Mr. Christy.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson, of Philadelphia, with their son and daughter, were guests of Mrs. Lorimer on Sunday last.

One of the best little truck farms in West Bristol township is owned by Robert H. Sanderson, who sold the first cabbage and peas in this end of the township.

Your correspondent having occasion to pass throuh several Townships, failed to see a crop of wheat as fine as our friend Johnny Bault has on exhibition near the River Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Whiteman, of New York City, who have been spending several weeks with their neice, Mrs. Henry Jones, of Sherwood Grove, returned to their home on Wednesday last.

The storm of Sunday last fell with unrelenting fury upon the many fields of newly cut grain and grass, which necessitated considerable shaking-up before being housed for winter use.

The news of the death of Mr. Paist, at his home near Eddington, on Thursday last was learned with much regret. While it was known he has been seriously ill his recovery was hoped for by his many friends.

Four horses were badly injured on Schenck's farm in Bensalem by becoming entangled in a barb wire fence, the horses being pastured there by Mr. Knight, who is connected with a coal company of Philadelphia.

A dredging machine is hard at work digging its way across the flats in order to reach Taylor's bank, which is badly in need of repairs, as the meadows are partly inundated most of the time since the bank broke several years ago.

Mrs. Thomas Duffield, of Locust Lawn, was out Thursday afternoon among her many friends soliciting donations for the benefit of the supper to be given by the Ladies' Aid Society on July 17th, on the lawn of the Presbyterian parsonage at Eddington.

Lorimer Buckman, occupying the lower farm of William Bault, illustrated the old adage "that a friend in need is a friend indeed" on Wednesday last when he sent his mowing machine and horses and cut his neighbor's grass. His timely aid which saved so much toil, was warmly appreciated.

It seems that some of the chicken raisers in West Bristol Township are experiencing great difficulty in raising their brood of young fouls for market, some are greatly troubled with rats, it seeming impossible to extreminate the troublesome rodents.

THE APOTHEOSIS IS STILL AMONG US.

If we are allowed to express an opinion in this land of the free, we think the Hermit of the Ivy Tower has had a severe attack of indigestion, or, perhaps is a little bilious or else is a pessimist by nature, which no doubt helps to inspire lugubrious views of life, and it is pertinent to note the peculiarity he has of circumlocuting a subject, instead of going straight at it. We cite as proof of this statement that his utterance suggests the inference that by extolling the virtues of our magnetic leader Mathew S. Quay, he is heaping coals of fire on some one's head. Or perhaps he poses as a Dionysius and wishes to inform Damocles that a sword hangs by a single hair above his head. If so we fear the warning will not be heeded. To quote one of Josh Billing's maxims advice is poor stuff to give—wise men don't need it and fools won't have it. Then again if the Hermit in the Tower is over-grown with clinging ivy, reverses the great senators and notes the immense bump of veneration which is his, both by birth and cultivation, why does he not emulate him in following the beautiful example of Christian forebearance and charity, which win and hold the people, and which has enabled Senator Quay to succeed in every political undertaking. When his followers have acquired his wisdom they will have the key to the citadel and may enter when they choose.

The great Quay leader of ox-roast fame still exists in the flesh, and seems to be just the sort of man to incite the malevolence and tyranny of some of the so-called followers of Quay and who also can evoke some caustic comments from the Hermit in the Ivy Tower, who from all appearance has not allowed his horn bugle to rust out from disuse, while the Quay leader of ox-roast fame is quietly resting in his tent, listening to the bray of the ass.

The mother who would be horrified at the thought of letting her daughter wander away to a strange country without guide or counsel, yet permits her to enter that unknown land of womanhood without counsel or caution. Then, in utter ignorance, the maiden must meet physical problems whose solution will affect her whole future life. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been well named a "God-send to women." It corrects irregularities and imparts such vigorous vitality to the delicate womanly organs, as fits them for their important functions. Many a nervous, hysterical, peevish girl has been changed to a happy young woman after the use of "Favorite Prescription" has established the sound health of the organs peculiarly feminine.

Railroad building in the United States began in 1826. The first railroad was three miles long, from Quincy, Mass, to the Neponset river. It was for transporting granite, and was originally worked by horses or mules.

HULMEVILLE.

Miss Bessie Magill is visiting in Trenton this week.

Miss Ray Vandegrift, of Oak Lane, has been visiting Joseph Oliver.

Miss Getrude Johnson spent Saturday and Sunday in Philadelphia

Mrs. Howard Douglass, of Bristol, was visiting in town on Tuesday.

Mrs. George Harrison and three children are visiting near Wycombe.

John Crimson, who has been sick for several weeks, is able to be about again.

Miss Erda Schatt was visiting her grandfather, Thomas Kitchman, last week.

Mrs. Julia J. Houston, of Philadelphia, is staying with her daughter, Mrs. R. R. Paxson.

Miss Maggie Magill, who has been visiting relatives for the last few weeks has returned home.

Charles Saboski has moved to Philadelphia, where, it is said, he will engage in meat and provisions.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis P. Townsend, of Bristol, were visiting Charles Thuerer on Saturday and Sunday.

Henry F. Mills, of Philadelphia, delivered a handsome new upright piano at William Tilton's last week.

Harold Marshall, son of William Marshall, who recently moved into town from Bristol, fell and broke his arm.

Charles Heifner was in Roxborough on Sunday attending the funeral of his brother who died in the Philippines.

Fricke & Company have equipped their new mill with hose to attach to their large pump which is run by their engine in case of fire. On Saturday they tested it.

John Wittko, who was thrown from a wagon several weeks ago and had his leg broken has returned from the Jefferson Hospital where he has been for treatment. He will now be obliged to use crutches for about a year.

On Thursday last secretary of the state assembly, Mrs Joslyn, assisted by Mr. Rae, of Philadelphia, instituted Wild Rose Lodge, No. 254, Daughters of Rebekah. There are about forty charter members. The officers are: Mrs. James P. Hellings, N. G.; Mrs. David Praul, R. S to N. G.; Mrs. Rachel Noon, L. S. to N. G.; Mrs. John Dunlap, V. G.; Miss Florence Dunlap, R. S. to V. G.; Mrs. Elisha C. Praul, L. S. to V. G; Mrs. Frank Snyder, R S. S.; Mrs. Benjamin Thorp, L. S S.; Mrs Howard Vansant, Warden; Mrs. Charles Aflerbach, Conductor; Mrs. George Harrison, Inside Guard; Mrs. Elmer Praul, Outside Guard, Miss Marion W. Tilton, Secretary; Mrs. Jesse Wester, Assistant Secretay; Mrs. Charles Markgraf, Treasurer; Mrs. Jesse Everitt, Chaplain. Regular meeting nights are the first and third Wednesday in the month.

LOCAL MISCELLANY.

There is still a great deal of work to be done on the Delaware Division Canal, and it will not be finished, it is believed, before August 1.

J. Harry Hoffman, of Frederick, was elected principal of the Newtown High School at a meeting of the directors on Friday evening.

The commencement exercises of the Morrisville High School were held on Wednesday of last week. The three graduates were Augustus W. White, John Lewis Howell and James Howell Johnson.

Joseph Kuen has resigned his poision as electrician for the Newtown Electric Street Railway Company, and gone to Philadelphia, where he has accepted a place with an electrical supply establishment.

The Cold Spring Bleaching and Finishing Company, of Yardley, had the honor of winning the gold medal at the Charlestown Exposition for the most attractive and best finished display of goods exhibited. The exhibit also won a silk banner given for general excellence.

A leak in the main which supplies water for the boilers in the power house of the Newtown Electric Street Railway Company cut off the supply on last Sunday and the plant had to be shut down after four o'clock. The leak was found and repaired late in the evening and cars were being operated on time Monday morning.

July 31st the postoffice at Boan, south of Sellersville, will be discontinued. Postmaster W. S. Schlichter, of Sellersville, received notice on Thursday morning to this effect. The Sellersville office is designated in the order to secure all papers, stamps and everything pertaining to the office and to discontinue all mail service to that point the last day of this month.

Ex-Judge Edward M. Paxson has given to the Medico-Chirurgical Hospital, Philadelphia, of which he is the President, the sum of $5,000 in payment of a free bed, in memory of his preceptor, the late Judge Henry Chapman. It is to be designated as "The Henry Chapman Free Bed." Either of the three daughters of the late Judge Chapman will have the right to name the occupant of the bed during their life-time.

While workmen were excavating the site for the new filter basins on the Harrison farm, Torresdale, last week, they unearthed an Indian stone axe head. It is in good condition, double pointed, each end being ground down to a fine edge and weighs about 15 pounds. A deep grove completely encircles the stone, around which a band of some sort bound it to the handle. It is on exhibition in a Torresdale cigar store and is attracting much attention, it being one of few such heads in existence.

An accident occurred at the Judge Paxson farm at Buckingham on Saturday morning, and as a result Isaiah Lewis, who resides near the Hughesian school house, was seriously injured. Contractor Girton, of Newtown, is building a barn on the Paxson farm, and while his men were working on the structure a scaffold broke, and the mechanics took a twenty foot tumble from the square of the building. Harry Girton, of Newtown, one of the victims, was badly bruised about the body, but not seriously injured. A deep gash was cut in Mr. Lewis head and he was also injured internally. Oscar Hamilton, of Doylestown, who was working at the building, received a severe cut on one hand from a falling hatchet.

George A. Cook, one of the oldest residents of Solebury, died at his residence near Centre Bridge, on Wednesday, June 25, aged 82 years. Mr. Cook was one of the best known business men in that community, having been a resident of Solebury for many years before removing to New Hope over thirty years ago. In 1869 he purchased of Jacob Eastburn a one-half interest in the "village of Limeport," one mile south of Centre Bridge, comprising over one hundred acres of land, lime quarries and kilns, wharves on the canal and several houses and other buildings and entered into the lime burning business at that time an active enterprise in Solebury. At the death of Mr. Eastburn a little over a year later he purchased the entire interest in the property and continued to carry on the business with marked success until 1869, when he sold the property and removed to New Hope, where he had purchased the hardware store of Thomas S. Murray.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY POLITICS.

(Special Correspondence.)

Norristown Pa., July 1—As indicated in this correspondence some time since the nomination of Judge Pennypacker to head the Republican State ticket for governor has instilled confidence all along the line, and the consequence is there are candidates galore. Not a few were announced during the past few days.

The latest is Josiah Landis, of Frankonia, for Assembly. Other Assembly candidates include: John H. Rex, Norristown; Horace M. Ebert, Pottstown; William H. DeHaven, Limerick; I. C. Williams, Royersford; Dr. A. G. Weida, Frederick; Charles Ambler, and J. Bates Goestner, Abington; Joseph W. Hunkel and Max Stuberman, Jenkentown; Edwin Lansdale, Springfield; A. M. Gill, Cheltenham; A. L

THURSDAY JULY 3, 1902.

The Indianapolis Journal says that "the last four years of Democratic rule left the country plunged in disaster and almost despair, but after six years of Republican rule, traffic is so congested that the greatest railroad systems in the world cannot handle it."

This week the Doylestown Weekly Intelligencer enters its ninety-ninth volume. Despite its advanced age the Intelligencer is able to do a quick-step in journalism. With A. K. Thomas at the business end and C. D. Hotchkiss vigilant for news the Intelligencer is a success.

Senator Bailey wears his honor on his sleeve. If the accusation of "an unwarranted attack" can be constructed into an insult the Texan's moral fibre must be of a highly sensitive nature. Bailey is a Southern coward or a powerful big fellow like him would not have pounced upon a little fellow like Beveridge. He should have tackled Tillman.

The editor of the Langhorne Standard who, in his delerious support of Attorney-General Elkin for Governor, made the remarkable statement that there was "not a Pennypacker man in Langhorne," makes the following confession:

Those of us who have been insisting that Quay was on the run were all right—the only mistake we made was in erring as to the direction in which he was running.

Admiral Dewey has fired a thirteen-inch shell into the Democratic camp. With the detonation crumbles the walls of another Democratic "issue." The Admiral's fire, which was drawn by Senator Carmack during the Senate investigation of Philippine affairs, was delivered with telling effect and Aguinaldo is held up by one who knows as a looter and a robber. Such testimony, coming from an erstwhile Democratic candidate for the Presidency, has a value that cannot be underestimated.

It is announced that the maneuvers of the American navy in the West Indies will be of the most colossal kind. Never before has the United States gotten together so large a sea armament in days of peace. There will be the North Atlantic squadron, the South Atlantic squadron, the European squadron, a flotilla of torpedo boats, and a fleet of colliers and provision ships, besides a complement of water-barges. And the best of all, George Dewey, the Admiral of the American navy will tread the deck of the flagship.

There was no "scuttle" in the sentiments expressed by Henry Watterson in his remarks at the Sunday exercises of the Tippecanoe Battlefield Association celebrated on that historic battle ground.

"We should go forward," he said, "rather than backward. The Constitution in one hand, the Bible in the other. The flag overhead carrying to all lands and all peoples the message alike of civilization and religion, the ark and the covenant of American freedom, along with the word of God."

The expression of such lofty and patriotic sentiments must come as a shock to those opposition statesmen who have been counting upon the brilliant Kentuckian as a bulwark of the anti-imperialistic

The card announcing the candidacy of William B. Worthington for the Republican Assembly nomination appears in this issue of the Gazette. Mr. Worthington is a farmer residing in Doylestown township and seeks the nomination from the Middle district. He is a Republican in and out of season and if he should be successful in the struggle will undoubtedly acquit himself with honor and with credit. The announcement of Henry H. Souder, of Quakertown borough, is also printed in this issue. Mr. Souder is proprietor of the Bush House, Quakertown's leading hotel. He is a Republican who is mentally and physically well equipped for the office and as he has the field practically to himself so far there is no doubt as to his selection by the convention.

Senator Hampton W. Rice, who has served four years as a member of the Assembly and four years as a State Senator, announces his candidacy for re-nomination to the select branch of the Legislature. In casting abroad his intentions Senator Rice addressed an open letter "to the Republicans of Bucks county." The genial "Hamp's" petition will fall upon deaf ears so far as the Republicans are concerned. The party men in this county who believe in Republican principles are of the opinion that the organization was not perfected for the purpose of supporting men who crept in under the cloak of Republicanism and then proceeded to destroy all of the landmarks. Mr. Rice has an indisputable right to be a candidate for the Senate, but his face is turned in the wrong direction. He is an independent of independents, and has no right to apply to a Republican caucus for nomination and neither will it be given him.

The first session of the Fifty-seventh Congress has closed. It has been one of the most important in the history of the country. The Philippine civil government bill which was passed during the closing hours is of paramount interest. The new law marks a deviation from the old landmarks and starts the nation upon the new course of governing a distant colonial possession. Its passage means that the native insurrection against the authority and sovereignty of the United States is practically ended and that the inhabitants of the islands will hereafter enjoy a freedom hitherto unknown. The Philippine bill carries with it amnesty and self-government. Another law of vast importance that has been written by the present Congress is the measure that provides for the stupendous undertaking of building an isthmian ship canal, connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans at Panama or Nicaragua. Other important measures adopted during the session were the irrigation bill, the war tax repeal, Chinese exclusion, Permanent Census Bureau, and oleomargarine bills. The important bills that failed of passage were the ship subsidy, immigration and the Babcock tariff measures. No apologies are needed for the work of the present Congress.

Editor Moser, of the Collegeville Independent is a Democrat of the conservative type. While retaining allegiance to the great party which has been so frequently defeated, but not conquered, the philosophic scribe of the Perkiomen is free from blinding prejudices and consequently editorially treats his subjects in a free, unbiased and discerning manner. His opinions being clear and stripped of party or factional motives are, therefore, of value. Concerning the nomination of Judge Pennypacker, the Independent says:

From a Republican point of view, unbiased by factional influence, and supported by considerations of prudence and foresight, the nomination of Judge Pennypacker for Governor cannot be too vigorously endorsed. The record of his life thus far is an uninterrupted epitome of integrity, judicial fairness, and of evidences of strong moral and intellectual characteristics. If Judge Pennypacker is not good enough and wise enough to meet the requirements of Republican voters they must indeed be exceedingly hard to please. His persistent individuality, his devotion to correct principles of human action, in all the past years of his life, constitute a sufficient guarantee that he will, if elected, administer Gubernatorial affairs with strict fidelity to the great trust imposed upon him. We do not believe that strong men can be swerved from the path of duty by the blandishments of their fellow men, nor the temptations that surround official life. That's exactly what we think of Judge Pennypacker. If the Republican party throughout the State will do equally as well in nominating candidates for the House of Representaties and the Senate, as they have done in naming a nominee for Governor, it will be strikingly in evidence that amends are to be made for at least some of the pernicious errors and shortcomings of the past.

A recent dispatch from Manila states that the bodies of the five American soldiers who had been carried off by Ladrones on May 30th, have been found so mutilated by bolos as to be unrecognizable. Nine of the men who butchered these Americans have been caught. Now leaving the subject of an approaching Democratic campaign out of the question, what would Senator Carmack, for instance do with these men if their disposition rested in his hands? Following his recent arguments, he would say that the same spirit of fierce patriotism actuated the brigands which burned in the bosom of the American patriots of 1776; that these soldiers in the Philippines received what was their just due, and that their murderers and mutilators should be at once released to continue their patriotic labors. In speaking of this incident, the Chicago Tribune says that if Senator Carmack were in the Philippines and could see the dismembered bodies of American soldiers, he probably would understand why the "water cure" has been administered, and why soldiers, goaded on by the sight of their comrades dismembered and weltering in blood, have forced confessions of the whereabouts of the murderers from conniving natives.

The Republicans of Pennsylvania never went into a State campaign with such assurances of success as they do this year. With a gubernatorial candidate of the very highest type of manhood, and with the party united and the country prosperous to an unusual degree the majority for the ticket will in all probability break the record for similiar contests. The nomination of Mr. Pattison by the Democrats at Erie could not have suited the opposing party better if their wishes had been consulted and their desires put into effect. Mr. Pattison was far the weakest candidate mentioned for the office. His vacillating actions upon questions of National import, the animosity aroused against him by organized labor and the aid he rendered to the crooked politicians of Philadelphia have all served to render him entirely unfit to be the standard bearer of an army that will be compelled to wage a contest against ou numbered foes. The remarkable instance has been displayed of the nomination of a candidate against the protests of the delegates from his own city. Senator Quay's prediction of a quarter of a million majority for Judge Pennypacker appears to be a prophecy that will be borne out by the actual transaction.

Dispatches state that the negroes of southern Illinois, in the section which is known as "Egypt," are being shamefully treated, have had their churches and houses burned, and have been driven out of the country. A contemporary remarks that possibly Senator Tillman has recently passed through that section. And this calls to mind one of Secretary Hay's early poems, in which the hero was a different kind of Tillman.

Tillman Joy returned from the war of the sixties to this section of southern Illinois known as "Egypt." He brought a negro boy who had saved his life. Then, as now, the inhabitants of "Egypt" disliked negroes and they concluded to dispose of this negro lad. But Tillman Joy was faithful to his black friend, and as the poem goes, said:

"Ye may resoloot till the cows come home,
But if one of ye teches the boy,
He'll rastle his hash in hell tonight
Or my name's not Tillman Joy."

The proposition to change the date of the Inauguration has become mixed up with the provision to at the same time change the date of adjournment of the short session of Congress, and on this latter point there has been some disagreement. There is no reason why the proposed inauguration change should fail to receive consideration at the hands of Congress, because an agreement cannot be reached at this time on the adjournment question. Everyone has practically agreed that March 4th is an unsafe and unsuitable time for inaugurating the President. Congress proposes to adjourn within the next five or six weeks. The two questions should be separated and prompt action taken to prevent a possible delay in action on the principal question of perhaps four years.

The new Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Moody, has issued an order that hereafter when officers are to be promoted the Bureau of Navigation is to forward to him the records of their services, which will show the proportion of the time they have spent at sea. It is stated that for some time the President has not believed in the prevailing practice that promotions based solely on seniority are for the good of the Army or of the Navy. Special services, he thinks, deserve special recognition. The promotion of men of exceptional ability in any part of the Government service would simply be following the rule applied in business corporations, and would secure the best service to the Government. In this action of the Secretary of the Navy the President again shows his disregard for bad precedents.

THE PRESIDENT AND QUAY.

THE SENATOR CLOSE TO ROOSEVELT—THE FORMER TO SUCCEED HANNA AS CHAIRMAN—WHY THE STATEHOOD BILL WAS FORCED.

Philadelphia Times.

Senator Quay aspires to be the recognized champion of Theodore Roosevelt in the next Republican national convention, and if the friends of Quay and Roosevelt can accomplish their purpose Senator Hanna or the man he wants will be unhorsed as chairman of the national committee, and the Pennsylvania Senator will be his successor and direct the next Presidential campaign. This is the programme according to information imparted by several prominent politicians in this city.

They assert that Quay wants to do for Roosevelt what he did for Harrison—win his Presidential victory for him and consequently be in on the ground floor when patronage and favors are bestowed. To this ambition they ascribe Quay's untiring effort in pressing for consideration in the Senate the bill admitting Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona to the union of States.

As a blind Quay's friends have given as a reason for his earnest espousal of this bill and his insistence that it be considered, that he desired to place his old friend and political assistant, "Bull" Andrews, in a position to be the next Senator from New Mexico. As Andrews spends much of his time in New Mexico, has large interests there and is strong politically, it would not be surprising if he should be one of the Senators elected when the Territory gets full State rights. But that isn't Quay's reason for advocating the admission of the three Territories. Andrews himself says so.

ROOSEVELT WANTS DELEGATES.

Roosevelt wants the delegates to the Republican national convention. Quay wants Roosevelt nominated; therefore, for Mr. Roosevelt first and himself second he pushed the bill along and succeeded in having a date fixed for consideration of the measure. Otherwise it would have died in committee.

Under their present organization the three Territories have six delegates all told in the national convention. Organized as States this number would be increased to twenty—New Mexico, six; Oklahoma, eight; Arizona, six. Admitted as States, Roosevelt would gain fourteen votes, for these States would be under obligations to the President and his chief champion, Quay. The fact that they may be Democratic is a secondary consideration to Roosevelt and Quay. What they want first is delegates, and the Statehood bill makes them friends with the three proposed States and any allied interests.

Hanna and his friends saw through this part of the scheme and attempted to block it, but only succeeded in effecting a compromise. Hanna views with alarm Quay's ever-increasing nearness to the President. Roosevelt and the Senator from Ohio have never been close and in the conflicting aspirations for the Presidency their interests continually have clashed.

QUAY HANNA'S ENEMY.

Quay has never forgiven Hanna for the part he took in influencing Senators to vote against seating him, the appointee of Governor Stone, in that body. He made his first alliance with Senator Platt at the Republican national convention held two years ago in Philadelphia. Here they forced Roosevelt on Hanna, against the will of the Ohio Senator and also of Roosevelt. Platt wanted Roosevelt out of the way; Quay wanted to force an unwelcome candidate on the national committeeman. They accomplished their ends.

But the assassination of McKinley changed conditions. Quay, however, was quick to see his opportunity, and he is now recognized as one of Roosevelt's staunchest supporters on the floor of the Senate. Hanna is antagonistic to both. He has been accused of assisting Elkin in his fight for the Pennsylvania Governorship against Quay.

HANNA GREATLY ANNOYED.

The rapidly increasing prominence of Quay as an administration leader is, according to reports, causing him no little annoyance.

If Hanna should push himself forward for Presidential honors he will want to select his own successor as national chairman. If he should decide he cannot win the nomination he will want to dictate Roosevelt's successor and personally conduct the campaign. This is just what Quay is said to be determined shall not happen, and it is thought he has Roosevelt's assistance in carrying out his plan. It is pointed out that Roosevelt has cultivated Quay's friendship, has had long conferences with him at the White House, has placed Quay's chief retainers in office and has not been especially particular what odor of political infamy was attached to them. He took a hand with Quay in his Gubernatorial plans, suggesting that the Senator name a candidate who would possibly harmonize the party in this State. He has given him moral support wherever possible.

In 1888 Quay was opposed to Harrison. He wanted Sherman. Harrison was nominate. Quay had himself elected national chairman, turned in quickly, made a vigorous campaign and elected Harrison, and has always been given the credit for it. He hopes to make another President before he closes his political career.

President Knew Stamp Tricks.

Last week a delegation of Westerners came to Washington to secure the reappointment of a bustling fellow to the postmastership of a "boom" town. He had the indorsements of almost all the people served by the office as well as the political magnate, and the mystery was why his reappointment was refused. The delegation secured an audience with the President and was surprised to find him perfectly familiar with local conditions. The President said:

"Gentlemen, I find from the report of the inspectors that your candidate has the indorsement of more than 90 per cent of the community, but I also find that he and his friends have been promoting the interests of your town at the expense of the United States. I find that it has been a practice of your business men to purchase large amounts of stamps which are not used as payment for postage at your home office. Presumably they use these stamps as currency to pay their small out-of-town bills. Your candidate will not be reappointed. Indeed we are considering the advisability of prosecuting him criminally, as a party to this fraud."

The delegation was thunderstruck. They had never imagined that an innocent ruse to enhance the value of their town as a growing metropolis and incidentally to increase the postmaster's salary by a little united effort was criminal, but the President intimated that examples of this thrifty Western habit would be more infrequent in the future.

An Eye to Safety.

Safety is the first consideration in the operation of the Reading Railway, and any violation of law which tends to impair the protection of the travelling public receives immediate attention and the transgressor is relentlessly pursued and brought to punishment. On June 18th, in the yard of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway at 23d and Arch streets, Philadelphia, Joseph Tabert, alias Joseph Paulding, was discovered cutting air hose from cars standing in the yard. On the 25th he was tried before Judge Beitler and sentenced to one year in the Eastern Penitentiary.

It is a very serious matter to take air hose from cars and no sentence could be too severe for such maliciousness. With the hose removed an engineman when called upon to make a sudden stop would find it impossible to control his train, and as result, there might be a serious accident.

The Kansas newspapers are commenting upon the fact that there has not been a bank failure in Kansas in a year. It is, indeed, a sad day for Kansas calamity criers.

ST. MARK'S COMMENCEMENT.

The fourteenth annual commencement and entertainment by the pupils of St. Mark's Parochial School was held on last Friday evening, June 27, in the assembly room of the school building on Radcliffe street.

The class of 1902 was composed of two young ladies, Misses Elizabeth Inez Lynn and Mary Veronica Dougherty.

Before the graduating exercises and the awarding of prizes to the scholars in the lower grades an entertainment consisting of music, drills and two one-act plays was given. The first sketch was entitled "The Enchanted Violin," given by scholars in the boys' department with the following cast of characters: Tamorante, a miserly native farmer, John Rafferty; Ico, his servant, Henry Farley; Dwarf, a wizard, James McGee; Solomon, a Jew, Francis Boyle; Judge, Hugh Harkins; elders, attendants and guards.

The girls presented a two-act drama entitled "Dolores, or Through the Fires of Sorrow." The cast of characters were: Mrs. Norton, a wealthy widow, proud and passionate, Miss Anna Rousseau; Augusta, her eldest daughter, haughty and vain, Miss Mary V. Dougherty; Pauline, afterwards Dolores, has great talent for painting, Miss Bessie I. Lynn; Nellie Clahorn, Mrs. Norton's neice, Miss Mary Motz; Grace, Isabel and Baby Constance, sisters, Misses Marguerite McIlvaine,

ST. MARK'S PAROCHIAL SCHOOL, BRISTOL.

Mary O'Brien and Jennie Welsh; Mrs. Worthington, a benevolent lady, patron of artists and an invalid, Miss Anna McIlvaine; Fanchette, her maid, Miss Eleanor Ferry; A Benevolent Lady, Miss May McHugh; Aunt Betsy, Miss Anna Motz; A Little Street Singer, Miss Mary Cronhan; Edith Temple, Clare Meredith and Heloise Zachare, fashionable friends of the Nortons, Misses Anna Coughlin, Katie Brogan and Rose Dougherty. The plays were well rendered and elicited much applause.

The following programme was rendered:
Piano duet, Misses McOwen and Murphy.
Motion song, by little girls.
Piano duet, Polka Brilliante, Misses Roche and Brennan.
The Bad Little Boy, action song.
Event deValse, Misses Brennen, O'Donnell and Dugan.
Woodland Maids, drill.
The Petit Carnival, piano, Misses Longstreet and Croughan; Little Sailors, drill; Flower of Love, piano duet, Misses Roche and Dugan; Fairy Bells, drill; Moonlight Reverie, piano, Misses Roche and Murphy; Finest on Parade, march; Puritani, piano, Misses Murphy and McOwen; La Favorita, piano, Misses Longstreet and Rafferty; Selections, piano and violin, Misses Dornisch and McGinley.

PRIZES AWARDED.

Misses Elizabeth Inez Lynn and Mary Veronica Dougherty having satisfactorily completed the course of studies of the senior grade were awarded gold medals for graduation by the Rev. M. A. Bunce, rector of St. Marks.

Prizes were also awarded to the scholars in the boys' and girls' departments for general averages in studies and attendance. A gold pin was presented to Winifred Tarpy, of the Fourth grade, for perfect attendance. In the Sixth grade, Margaret McIlvaine, Mary Kelley and Anna Tarpy were perfect in attendance and to settle the award of a gold pin a drawing took place which was won by Margaret McIlvaine. A gold medal for the highest general average in the Eighth grade was awarded to Anna Rousseau. Next in merit, Mary Motz.

In the boys' department, Eighth grade, Henry Farley was presented with a gold medal for the highest general average. James McGee, John Rafferty and Francis Boyle also received prizes. In the Sixth grade, Frank Byers was given the award of a gold medal for highest general average and John Brennan and James Kelly received the second and third prizes.

The commencement and entertainment were the most interesting in the history of the school, the hall was filled with an interested audience and many flowers were presented to the pupils.

Miss Fabian's Parasol of Red.

The Philadelphia Record's Nosegay artist says: Miss Frances Fabian, of Tullyown, who is visiting friends up in the northwestern section of the city, tells with great glee of how she held up the Pennsylvania special, the Pennsylvania Railroad's new fast express, the other day. Her home at Tullytown is situated about a quarter of a mile from the station. The railroad takes quit a sharp curve just above the station, and as there is a cinder path alongside and the route is shorter than around by the public road, the members of the Fabian family generally take the short cut. Miss Fabian was walking along this path the other day, carrying a bright red parasol. Behind her, around the curve, came thundering the Pennsylvania special. When the engineer caught sight of the blot of red, which from his position seemed to be directly on the track, he whistled and began to slow down. Miss Fabian did not pay any attention, as she was quite out of danger on the path, but still the engineer whistled. "Hey, there," cried a man on the other side of the tracks. "He's whistling at that red parasol of yours." Sure enough, he was, for as the train went by at a greatly diminished speed the engineer leaned out of his cab window and shook his fist at the girl with the red sunshade.

Another Park at Willow Grove.

E. T. Kimble, whose farm adjoins the Traction Company's park, at Willow Grove, has leased ten acres of land for twenty years for $500 a year, and, it is said, $300,000 is to be spent at once on amusements. It is to be run by L. D. Shaw, who has the Ferris wheel at Woodside Park, and other amusements at Coney Island.

The ground leased lies between the old and new Welsh roads and contains a grove of trees, spring and other natural attractions.

Mr. Kimble says the parties have already made a payment on account and mean business. They will take possession at once and push the work of improvement.

It is the skin of the grape which gives the color to wines. In the white wines the husks are separated before fermentation.

It is estimated that throughout the world nearly 400,000,000 telegrams are forwarded every year.

The King and McKinley.

N. Y. Sun.

Some of the surgical experts in London are reported as having compared the operation on the King to the operation performed on President McKinley immediately after he was shot. Both operations were, of course, intestinal operations, but the methods employed by the King's surgeons differed from the methods employed by President McKinley's surgeons in one important, some authorities think vitally important, particular.

In the case of the King, the operator completed his work by inserting two drains into the wound, packing it with antiseptic gauze and closing it temporarily. In the case of the late President, the surgeons closed the wound permanently, leaving no drainage at all. After any intestinal operation, where a septic condition is found, there is always a greater or less discharge of pus for several days after the operation. Unless the wound is drained, the discharge must be made into the intestines.

The King's wound was drained. President McKinley's was not. In the King's case the drains will be removed when the septic discharge ceases, the guaze will be removed and the wound be permitted to heal by granulation. The President died. The King may live. The wound of the one was drained. The wound of the other was not. What the surgeons call drainage may mean life to Edward of England. The lack of it may have been the cause of a continent-wide mourning for the death of William McKinley.

BASE BALL

On last Saturday afternoon Good Will won an exciting game from the Resolute A. C. Callahan did the twirling for the firemen and struck ten men out. The features of the game were Barton's timely hitting and D. Galla gher's playing at third base. The score:

This Is My Last year in the plant trade, owing to contracts with Philadelphia parties for asters and chrysanthemums for this summer and fall.

In order to get room I must sell every pot plant on my place in six weeks time. I must have the room, if I have to give or throw my plants away.

Until last week in May, I will sell any kind of blooming plants at a reduction of from 10 to 25 per cent. less than you can purchase elsewhere.

Pepper and tomato and egg plants, transplanted and in bloom.

I cut about a cart load of roses, carnations and grant daisies every day. I will sell you these for less than any one else.

If my prices are not less than those prevailing elsewhere, I will give you the plants. Call and examine stock and prices and be convinced.

HEAVENLY PEACE.

When the sun has set in splendor
In the rosy tinted sky
And the silent shades of night begin to fall;
Oft the world seems cold and dreary,
And our hearts are sad and weary
As the darkness settles o'er us like a pall.

But our Father sends his message
That will cheer us in the gloom,
'Tis the moonlight—soft and tender,
sweet and still,
It will fill our hearts with gladness,
Drive away all fear and sadness,
And with holy peace our troubled spirits fill.

Thus how often on Life's journey—
When we're overcome by grief
And the clouds have gathered thick on every side
If we lift our eyes to Heaven
We may see His message given
And His peace with us forever will abide.

In the Court of Common Pleas in and for the County of Bucks.

NOTICE TO THE HEIRS AND LEGAL REPRESENTATIVES OF WILLIAM WALTON, DECEASED, AND EACH AND EVERY OF THEM:

You are hereby notified that at a Court of Common Pleas holden at Doylestown, in and for the county of Bucks, on the 20th day of May, A. D. 1902, G. SECKEL HEADMAN presented his petition setting forth that the petitioner was the owner in fee of all that certain tract of land in the township of Bensalem, county of Bucks and state of Pennsylvania, Beginning at a corner of land intended to be conveyed to Jacob Sipler, thence by land of Walton N. 24½ degrees W. 41 P. to a corner in the middle of a public road from Philadelphia to Bristol, thence along the middle of said road N. 60½ degrees E. 24 P. to a corner, thence by Bickley's land N. S. 25 degrees 45 minutes E. 42 6-10 P. to a corner and thence by land intended to be conveyed to the said Jacob Sipler S. 64 degrees W. 25 4-10 P. to the place of beginning, containing 6 acres and 64 perches.

And also that certain tract of land situate in said township of Bensalem, Beginning at a stone set for a corner, thence by William Walton's land N. 24½ degrees W. 12 6-10 P. to a corner, thence by land intended to be conveyed to David Woodington N. 64 degrees E. 25 4-10 P. to a corner in a line of Bickley's land in a road, thence by said Bickley's land S. 25 degrees 45 minutes E. 12 6-10 P. to a corner and thence by land of Jacob Sipler S. 64 degrees W. 29 4-10 P. to the place of beginning, containing 2 acres.

That the said two tracts of land hereinbefore bounded and described appear by the record to be subject to the following mortgage to-wit: All that certain mortgage given and executed by David Sipler to William Walton, bearing date the second day of April, A. D. 1780, and duly recorded in the office for the recording of deeds at Doylestown, in and for the county of Bucks in Mortgage Book No. 2, page 380, etc., to secure the payment of one hundred pounds sterling. The land described in said mortgage being as follows, to-wit: All that certain messuage and plantation or tract of land situate in the township of Bensalem, county of Bucks and state of Pennsylvania, bounded and described as follows, to-wit: Beginning at a corner on the side of the Bensalem creek and extending thence by land of Philip Sipler S. 25 degrees E. 164 P. to a stone for a corner, thence by the said Philip Sipler's land S. 63 degrees W. 45 P. and 6-10 of a P. to a stone set for a corner near a black oak tree, thence by Barnard VanKirk's land S. 21½ degrees E. 25 P. to a stone set for a corner, thence across the said tract by a line parallel to the last mentioned line but one, viz: N. 63 degrees E. about 90 P. to a stone set for a corner in the line of land of John Duffield, thence partly by the said John Duffield's land and partly by Falkard Vandegrift's land by a line nearly parallel to the first mentioned line, viz: N. 24 degrees 30 minutes W., extending to the side of Poquessing creek aforesaid, and thence along said creek on the several courses thereof to the place of beginning, containing 60 acres, be it more or less

The said two tracts of land hereinbefore described and which are subject to the lien of the said mortgage are a part of the said land in the said mortgage described.

That the said mortgage remains unsatisfied of record, but by reason of the lapse of time there exists a legal presumption that the said mortgage is paid.

That the said mortgagee named in the said mortgage has long since died, but it is not known to the petitioner who are his heirs and legal representatives. That no demand has ever been made upon your petitioner at any time nor upon the preceding owner of the said tracts of land for any part or all of the principal sum of said mortgage or any interest due thereon, and praying the said court to make an order directing that notice of the facts in this petition set forth be given by advertisement, and that upon proof being made of the legal presumption of the payment of the said mortgage to decrees and direct satisfaction to be entered upon the record of the said mortgage hereinbefore mentioned, and do such other things as are directed by the Act of the General Assembly in such case made and provided.

Whereupon, to dic, the said Court made the following order:

And now, to-wit: May 20th, A. D. 1902, the within petition having been presented and read in open court, it is hereby ordered and decreed: That B. Frank Hobensack, High Sheriff of the county of Bucks aforesaid, be and is hereby directed to serve notice of the facts set forth in the above mentioned and hereto attached petition upon the heirs and legal representatives of William Walton, deceased, the legal holder of the mortgage in the said petition mentioned, and each and every of them, if they can be found in the county of Bucks, and in case all of the said parties cannot be found in said county, then the said Sheriff be and is hereby directed to give public notice of the said facts set forth in said petition in the "Bristol Gazette," a weekly newspaper published within the said county of Bucks, once a week for four weeks successively prior to the then next term of said court to be holden at Doylestown, in and for the said county of Bucks on the 15th day of September A. D. 1902, requiring all of the said parties to be and appear at the said term of said court at 11 o'clock A. M., on the 15th day of September, A. D. 1902, to answer the said petition and show cause if any they may have why satisfaction of the said mortgage shall not be decreed by the court according to the Act of Assembly in such case made and provided.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Gregory White, colored, was taken to the County Home yesterday.

The mills will shut down tonight and remain closed until Monday.

The ferryboat William E. Doron takes passengers to Burlington Island Park and return for ten cents.

John G. Street, who for some time has been night superintendent at Grundy's mill, has given up his position.

The Corona Kid Company has purchased the farm adjoining their property of J. C. Schmidt on the Beaver Dam road.

Bristol, Burlington, Bordentown and Mt. Holly A. M. E. Sunday schools will picnic at Burlington Island Park on Friday, July 18.

The Allemania Verein will celebrate the Fourth of July with a big display of fireworks in front of their club house on Jefferson avenue.

Several young people from Bristol participated in the musicale given in the Christian Church, Tullytown, on Tuesday evening by the pupils of Miss E. F. White.

In place of, the ferry house which was recently burned down, William E. Doron is putting up a new building to be constructed of iron and cement.

George Schoch leaves on Monday for Newark, N. J., where he has received a position in the construction shop of the North Jersey Street Railway Company.

On Friday evening of next week H. Clay Beatty Circle, No. 2, Ladies of the G. A. R., will hold its annual lawn party at the corner of Jefferson avenue and Pond street.

Melvin Jeffries on Tuesday entered upon his duties as clerk at the Bristol post office. The office now supports the postmaster, three clerks, a mail clerk and a janitor. We do move.

The new hose purchased by the borough for the fire companies has been apportioned as follows: No. 1 company, 250 feet; No. 2, 650 feet; No. 3, 400 feet. Each company now has about 1200 feet of good hose.

The members of Good Will Hose Co., No. 3, will give an elaborate display of fireworks in front of their hose house on Swain street on the evening of the Fourth of July. The public is invited to witness the display.

On last Monday morning George Stephenson, an employee of E. T. Steel & Co., had his arm caught in the rollers of a machine called a "crab," which is used in the finishing of worsted cloth, fracturing the bone in two places.

On Tuesday, while in the city attending to business, P. O. Kidd was knocked down by one of Gimble Brothers' teams and severely kicked by the horse. During the excitement Mr. Kidd lost his pocketbook containing fifty dollars.

The Rev. Alexander Henry, pastor of the Mormon Presbyterian Church, of Frankford, and provisional moderator of the Session of the Bristol Presbyterian Church, accompanied by the members of his family, has left his home for a trip to Colorado.

There will be no programme of celebration of the Fourth in Bristol, but the small boy with his bunch of noise, will be in evidence as usual. The post office will be closed after 10 o'clock. The stores, bank, library and offices will be closed all day.

The shad hatchery at Bristol has been fitted up for the propagation of sturgeon and everything is now in readiness waiting for the sturgeon eggs from Pennsville, N. J., where they have been collected. The New Jersey Fish Commission has been collecting the eggs.

The rite of confirmation was administered to a class of four at Christ Church, Eddington, on last Friday evening by Bishop Coleman, of Delaware. The music was furnished by the vested choir of St. James' Church, of Bristol, with Miss Baker as organist.

The Liberty Cornet Band has been engaged to furnish the music for the Fourth of July celebration held by the Riverton Yacht Club, at Riverton, tomorrow. Bristol's crack musical organization gave such general satisfaction last Fourth, they were engaged again this year.

The Boys' Friendly Society of St. Paul's Mission will hold its seventh annual garden party at the residence of Rev. Thomas J. Garland on Radcliffe street on Saturday, August 2. An open air concert will be given by the Liberty Cornet Band. A magic lantern exhibition will also be given and refreshments will be served.

List of letters remaining in the Bristol postoffice for the week ending July 2d, 1902: Mrs. William Cannium, Daniel Carrn, Bertha Collin, Lewon Sarafin, John DeHanen, Bertha Hill, Lottie Holt, Elva Hurst, George W. Jackson, Mrs. Koch, James Mearer, Plimer Ford, Albert H. Powell, Nicholas Riddle, Bell Crawford, John Schmillenger, Mr. Sterling.

John T. Smith has at his up-to-date cigar store in the post office building an old railway spike which was recently dug up on Market street. The spike was used in the road which in the early days ran down Market street to connect with the boats. Another curio which is displayed in the window is a heavy cutlass of ancient pattern, which was recovered from the depths of the river by a shore net while hauling for shad.

Barney Doohan, who for several weeks had been confined in the borough lock-up under $1000 bail for defying the smallpox quarantine regulations, was released last week, his bail having been reduced to $300, his father going his security. After being warned by the guards young Doohan entered the house on Franklin street where his wife and new born babe were confined with malignant cases of smallpox. After staying inside for sometime and changing his clothes he returned to the street and was arrested and held under $1000 bail to appear at court. The Sheriff refused to admit him to the county jail so he was kept in the local station house for three weeks until released upon the reduction of bail.

Joe Levis, son of Frank Levis, usher at the Pennsylvania railroad station, returned to Bristol on Monday after a three years' service in the regular army in the Philippines. Most of Levis' time has been spent on the Island of Penay, and he took part in a number of engagements and skirmishes which fact is recited in his discharge papers. At Manila, on the way home he was quarantined for a number of days on account of the cholera. While there the quarantine physicians destroyed his clothing and a large number of curios and souvenirs which he was bringing home. Herbert Slack, another Bristol boy who was in the service, returned with Levis.

What might have been a serious accident was narrowly averted at the Mill street railroad crossing on last Tuesday morning. The fast freight which is due here at 3.30 a. m. picked up a plank in the scoop under the tender, from Schaffer's crossing at South Bristol. The scoop failing to work when the troughs were reached, the engineer slackened his speed to ascertain the trouble. At Mill street crossing the obstruction caught in the planks between the rails of No. 1 track and ripped them up, from one side of the street to the other. The hind wheels of the tender and the forward wheels of the adjoining car were derailed. Had it not been for the diminished speed a serious accident would have resulted. The wrecking crew arrived promptly from Trenton and at 5 o'clock the track was cleared and traffic resumed.

A RIOT THIS MORNING.

CONTRACTOR FRAZER'S ARM BROKEN AND AN ITALIAN'S HEAD CUT OPEN—A TROLLEY-RAILROAD FIGHT.

This morning at daybreak a riot occurred between workmen of the Pennsylvania Railroad company and the Neshaminy Elevated Railroad company, during which an Italian belonging to the crew of the former had his head cut open and contractor James Frazer, of the elevated company, had his arm broken.

The elevated company had planted poles along the disputed territory at Croyden station, and were engaged in stringing trolley wires to connect the Bristol end of the trolley with the power house at Bridgewater. Mr. Frazer, General Manager Mollinard and about 25 Italians were engaged in the work.

About day break a gang of several hundred Italians under the leadership of a Pennsylvania Railroad boss appeared upon the scene and immediately commenced to chop down the poles. A grappling hook was cast over the wires in order to pull them down. In throwing up the hook it missed the mark and came down, striking a railroader in the head, cutting him across the forehead. Becoming infuriated a companion seized a fence rail and made a rush to strike Mr. Mollinard across the back of the head. Mr. Frazer seeing the peril threw out his arm to ward off the blow aimed at Mr. Mollinard; the rail came with awful force and broke Mr. Frazer's arm.

Being outnumbered and overpowered the elevated crew quit the scene. Just what the outcome of the riot will be is not known at this writing.

Fidelity Council, No. 21, Jr. O. U. A. M., will run its fourth annual complimentary moonlight excursion on Wednesday evening, July 23d. Its guests this year will be Bristol Division, No. 107, Sons of Temperance and Bristol Council, No. 58, Daughters of America. Two orchestras will be engaged and dancing will be permitted in the lower saloon. These excursions have become quite popular and are looked forward to with pleasure by a large portion of the young people of our town. Tickets are not sold to outsiders, but are purchased by the members of the societies and presented to their friends.

A delegation of Enterprise Council, No. 6, of Trenton, paid a fraternal visit to Fidelity Council, No. 21, J. O. U. A. M., last Thursday evening. After the speechmaking was over the guests were invited to the banquet room below where ice cream and cake were served.

Mrs. George C. Gillingham has been elected delegate to represent Shepherds Delight Lodge, No, 1 of Bristol, Shepherds of Bethlehem, in the annual convention which will be held at Bridgeport, Conn., in October.

A Pianoforte Recital.

The pupils of Miss Mary P. Rogers, of Bristol, gave a pianotorte recital on last Friday evening at the First Baptist Church. The programme was excellently rendered and thoroughly enjoyed by the appreciative audience. Those who took part were: Harry Arnold, Helen Webb, May Stradling, Enda Walton, Irene Horn, Vera V. Vansant, Miss Katie Dickson, Miss Julia Taylor, Miss Sara Horn, Miss Ellie Thornton, Miss Lulu Parr and Miss Anna Ingles.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. Anna B. King is at Asbury Park.

Captain Frank G. Edwards and family are at Cape May.

Mrs. Jesse O. Thomas returned today from a month's visit to Ohio.

Mrs. A. Weir Gilkeson leaves on Saturday for Harvey Cedars, N. J.

Miss Alice Lippincott is spending her vacation at Wilmington, Del.

Miss Ann Carr is spending the summer at Walnut Grove on the Neshaminy.

Mrs. J. M. Slack and daughter, Dr. Julia H. Slack, are at Beach Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. Stacy B. Pursell left on Monday to visit relatives in Chicago.

William Marshall and family, of Jefferson avenue, have moved to Hulmeville.

Miss Hilda Wimpenny, of Trenton, has been visiting Miss Charlotte Betz.

Caleb Warner and family, of Middleton, N. Y., are visiting friends and relatives here.

Miss Mabel Worthington, of Baltimore, is spending two weeks with Miss Elizabeth Bevan.

Miss Margaret Harrison, of Philadelphia, is visiting Mrs. William Holt on Mill street.

Mrs. W. Nelson Jarvis and family are spending the summer at Colmar, Montgomery county.

Miss Elizabeth Barringer, of Harrisburg, is visiting Mrs. Willard Richmond on Cedar street.

Rev. and Mrs. Thomas List are spending the month of July with Mrs. List's mother, Mrs. Samuel Swain.

Miss Anna Iauess and Miss Nellie Smith, of Philadelphia, have been the guests of Miss Isabel Smith for the last ten days.

Miss Edith Krieder, a member of this year's graduating class of the Bristol High School, left for her home in Thomsontown, Pa., the day after commencement.

James Schiavotti, the Cedar street tailor, is taking a course in cutting at Burlington.

Dredging the Upper Delaware.

The Wilmington Steamboat Company, which will put the steamer Quaker City upon the up-river route and is now running the freight steamer Fannie between Trenton, Bristol and Philadelphia, commenced on Sunday planting channel buoys between Perriwig and Trenton. The company, according to Local Agent Harris, will aid in the dredging of the channel between the above points. The State of New Jersey has appropriated $90,000 for the purpose of assisting in the work.

Arm Broken by a Horse.

Wesley Bunting, of Bath street, met with painful accident on last Saturday morning. While holding a horse in the stable yard at Grundy's mill while a train was passing, the animal suddenly shied and throwing its head up suddenly struck Mr. Bunting on the right forearm, breaking both the bones. Dr. Weaver was hastily summoned and after giving him the necessary medical attention, the young man was sent to his home in the stage.

A Wife Beater Hauled Up.

In 'Squire Booz's court on Monday Mrs. Teresa Murphy recited a tale of cruelties inflicted upon her and her daughter by her husband, John Murphy. Mrs. Murphy under oath declared that her lord and master came home drunk and about three o'clock in the morning dragged her out of bed and beat her without any provocation. The daughter also testified against the father allaging that she was pulled out of bed at the unseemingly hour and forced out of doors. Murphy was put under $500 bail to appear at the September term of criminal court.

Remarkable Shooting.

At a shooting match between the Keystone Gun Club and the Florists' Gun Club at Torresdale last week, Ray Nevegold, of Bristol, carried off the honors of the day by breaking 44 blue rocks out of a possible 50. The next high man was Davis with 42. Considering the remarkable previous feat performed by Mr. Nevegold, when he killed 12 straight live birds at 30 yards with one barrel, he can rightly claim the local championship. The score at Torresdale follows: Nevegold 44, Davis 42, Cartledge 41, Sheeler 40, Harris 40, Earns 39, Clark 37, Baur 36, Huttonlock 40, Haywood 33, Hack 33, McGuire 33. The total number of points scored were Keystone 533 and Florists 569.

Stole Jewelry in a Boarding House.

A stranger who gave his name as Jones made application and was accommodated with board at 605 Cedar street on last Friday. He stated that he was going to open a store on Mill street. On Saturday morning Miss Carrie Lippincott, who also boarded at the place, upon returning to her room several hours after breakfast missed a number of articles of jewelry. The police were notified and Jones was immediately suspected. The stranger could not be found anywhere and no trace of his leaving town could be found. Among the articles stolen were three gold breastpins, two rings, a long watch chain, two pair gold glasses and a diamond stick pin.

Wait for Good Calendars.

For the year 1903 the Gazette will have the finest line of calendars ever offered to the trade in Bucks county. We have a well-deserved reputation for handsome printing and those who contemplate giving orders for calendars this year will be serving themselves by placing them with this office. A calendar to be effective must be artistic or the value is lost. Many calendars of good design have been utterly ruined by the slip-shod printing that has been done for the customer. It will cost no more to have good work done, than that of some of those we have seen that look as though they had been printed on a hay press. Nothing but the best at the Gazette office. Hold your orders until our representative can call upon you with a set of samples, or drop postal and we will submit styles and prices.

Largest Greenhouse in the World.

There has just been completed at Edgely what is said to be the largest greenhouse in the world, which will be used exclusively for raising the celebrated "Queen of Edgely." The dimensions of the house are 307 feet long by 64 feet wide, and it requires 2,700 square feet of glass to cover the building. At the Floral Exchange, at Edgely, there are all in all 37 houses, where nothing but roses are cultivated, and but six varieties. "Queen of Edgely," American Beauty, Meteor, Budis, Bridesmaid and Golden Gate. It requires 2000 gallons of water for each wetting and in all there are 190,000 square feet of glass. About 500 tons of coal are consumed per annum, as all the houses are heated by steam. Harry Simpson is manager of the entire plant and the popular success of the Edgely cultivations is largely due to his intelligent efforts.

Died in a Barber's Chair.

William Black died in the chair at John S. Price's barber shop last Monday morning while being shaved. Black, who was formerly engaged in the business of removing dead animals, had been in ill health for some time, suffering with valvular disease of the heart. On Monday morning prior to taking the ferry for Burlington he went into Price's to get shaved. He appeared to be in his usual health and showed no signs of undue illness. John Hughes, who is employed by Price, was alone with his customer, and when the shaving was half completed he noticed that the man in the chair was acting as though gasping for breath. Then suddenly without uttering a word he quieted and his face began turning blue. Becoming alarmed the barber rushed from the shop, a doctor was summoned and Black was pronounced dead.

Started a Trolley Road at Daybreak.

At daybreak on Monday morning a force of laborers, consisting of about one hundred Italians started to work laying the ties and rails along the side of the pike at Edgely. By night the work was about completed and a half mile of railroad laid. Teams were busy all day Monday going through Bristol carrying rails and sleepers. A representative of the Gazette was early upon the scene but little information could be gathered. Ferdinard Seneca, the local Italian nabob, was in charge of the crew and he was as dumb as an oyster upon the intent of the operations. The rails have been laid from the bridge above the old Edgely tollgate to the point this side of the greenhouses, a distance of about a half-mile. From unauthoritic sources it is said the Trenton and Bristol Street Railway Company took the sudden action in anticipation of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company running a siding across the pike into the Floral Exchange greenhouses at Edgely.

A Shirtwaist Social.

At Hulmeville Park, on Tuesday evening, a neglige hop was given by a number of Bristol's young people. The young ladies were informally costumed in natty shirt waists while the men wore attractive outing suits. Parr's orchestra furnished the music, and the gaiety was kept up until midnight. Those present were: Misses Bond and Salters, of Trenton; Miss Harrington, of Philadelphia; Miss Fennell, of Camden; Miss Markgraf, of Hulmeville; Mr. and Mrs. Leon Danfield, Misses Eva Braden, Lizzie Bailey, Jessie Wright, Hatie Bailey, Lizzie Wright, Ida Gouliu, May Campbell, Emma Mauer, Florence Green, Abbie Chase, Bertha Hellings and Miss Cannon, of Bristol; Messrs. Warren and MacNemee, of Princeton; William Swizer, Trenton; Joseph S. Peirce, Jr., Dr. Wilbur Peirce, Lawrence F. McOwen, Jr., John McOwen, Jr., Raymond Fabian, Lewis Worhington, George Silbert, Owen Evans, Jr., Wilbur Fabian, Frank Louderbough, Arthur Wright, John Wright and William Markgraf, of Bristol; Edward Scott and William Hudnut, of Philadelphia.

Edward Hartman has moved from Trenton and located at the corner of Cedar and Penn streets.

Reception to Graduates.

The Alumni Association of the Bristol High School gave a reception to this year's graduating class in the assembly room last Thursday evening. The room was tastefully arranged for the occasion and the reception, which was entirely informal in its character, was one of the most successful ever held. A pleasing thing in connection with the function was the abundant supply of young men present. The directors, their wives and all the teachers received special invitations and quite a number were in attendance. The size of the room made it peculiarly adaptive to such an affair and afforded ample opportunity for all present to enjoy themselves in a manner agreeable to their own tastes and inclinations. Thus those who found pleasure in dancing, gratified that desire by keeping in step to the rythm of Parr's orchestra, which was in attendance, while those who found no enjoyment in that graceful exercise, derived pleasure from social intercourse. A caterer from Burlington looked after the refreshments. Taken in its entirety, the affair was very successfully managed, proved a delightful social function, and was highly creditable to the oganization under whose auspices the reception was given. Among those pesent were the following: John K. Wildman, Miss Louise D. Bagge, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. P. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Joyce, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Harrison, William Booz, Manus McGinley, Frederick Stuckert, Harvey S. Rue, Doron Green, Misses Mary E. Watson, Frances C. Hykes, Reba L. Knight, Caroline N. Keeler, Rachel E. Bartine, Ellis Mathias, Anna L. Brady, Gertrude Johnson, Clara M. Parks, Annie M. Myers, Eva R. Gould, Maggie B. Barrett, Alice V. Lippincott, Carrie G. Minster, Annie A. Latimeer, Elizabeth Betz, K. Anna Rumsay, Adeline G. Lewis, Katherine Bell, Bertha Hetherington, Kate Flowers, Jennie Flowers, Bessie Rue, Jessie Wright, Clara Williams, Alice Patterson, Lizzie Bailey, Anna Foster, Mellie York, Charlotte I. Betz, Laurie Pearson, Edith McNally, Florence Lund, Minerva E. Owens, Isabel Smith, Elizabeth J. Bevan, Janie Hibbs, Abbie Chase, Laura King, Mamie King, Lizzie Detlefson, Katherine Groff, Florence Ancker, Bessie Hussey, Mary Douglass, Anna Hetherington, Daisy Allen, Estelle Vick, of Bristol; Misses Alethia Bond, Hilda Winpenny, of Trenton; Misses Edith and Helen Oakford, of Merchantville, N. J.; Miss Sara Jones, of Philadephia; Miss Lena Wardman, of Chester; Harry York, Clarence Fenton, James Fenton, Albert Baker William Highland, Ellis E. Ratcliffe, Frank Louderbough, James Brooks, Dr. Wilber Peirce, Clarence Barnhill, Tilton Ellis, Howard Duff, Arthur Wright, of Bristol; William Schweizer, Ernest Stahr, Mr. Scott, Charles Smith, Mr. Archibald, of Trenton.

Class Day Exercises.

The Class Day exercises of the graduating class of the Bristol High School were held last Thursday morning, the last day of school in the assembly room of the High School building. The class, colors, orange and black, were to be seen everywhere. The class upon entering the High School was welcomed by the senior class and the title of "seniors" duly transferred to the junior lass.

Following is the programme:

Class Song.

Class History, Miss Edith McNally.

Prophecy, written by Miss Mary York, delivered by Miss Elizabeth Bevan.

Song, "Molly Shannon," Misses Laurie Pearson and Minerva Owens.

Recitation, class poem, Miss Laurie Pearson.

Song, "Dreamy Eyes," class.

Presentations, Miss Isabel Smith.

Last Will of '02 class, Miss Minerva Owens.

Song, class.

After the exercises were over all present went to the school room where refreshments were served. Misses Florence Lund and Charlotte Betz were in charge of the ice cream and cake tables respectively, so that each member of the class had a share in making the Class Day a success.

Moonlight Excursion.

The Brotherhood of the Union, No. 66, of Bristol, on Saturday evening, July 12, will give a moonlight excursion down the Delaware as far as Washington Park on the Steamer Columbia. The boat will leave Bristol at 8 o'clock, stopping at Burlington. A stop will be made at the famous park. Music, dancing and refreshments on board and everything will be done for the comfort and enjoyment of those who participate.

Gladys' Party.

A pretty gathering was held last week at the home of Edward Renk, 123 Mulberry street, in honor of her daughter Gladys' fourth birthday. Many beautiful gifts were received. Among those present were: Miss Marie Minster, Miss Grace Richmond, Annie, Bertha and Nellie Tice, Hazel and Gladys Renk, Inez Longstreet, Jessie Fine, Lillie and Katie Kraft, Miss Alice Kraft, Harry Arnold, Howard Johnson, Willie Thompson, Victor and Edward Smith, Kenneth Wright, Earnie Kraft, Anna and Emily Dawson.

Lowery Bros. Circus.

In organizing this exhibition for the tenting season, the management has been prompted with desire to present to the public patronage a show which would have both the characteristics of novelty and intrinsic excellence. There has been too great a similarity of exhibitions under canvas and amusement patrons have been called upon to pay for that which they have seen so many times before. The constant repetition has become wearisome and monotonous the same stale jokes of the clown and the same general circus. From all this Lowery Bros. have made an entirely new departure.

A Successful Cantata.

The cantata entitled "The Great Light," which was rendered by the choir of the M. E. Church in the church auditorium on last Tuesday evening was a brilliant success. The choruses were rich and strong and the solos, duets and quartettes exquisitely rendered. Chorister W. F. Hall was in charge and the results of his work as displayed in the efficiency of the choir has greatly increased his popularity as a musical conductor. Master Preston Parker, a boy soprano of St. Andrew's Church, West Philadelphia, was to have rendered several solos but owing to a severe cold was only able to sing one selection. Through the kindness of William P. Twaddell, the choirmaster and organist of St. Andrews Church, Russell M. Wagar, a baritone singer in his choir, was secured as a substitute. His renditions were meritorious and much appreciated by the audience. A special selection by Miss Ruth Stepenson, entitled "The Angels' Serenade," with violin obligato accompaniment, was a prominent feature of the evenings entertainment. Miss Stephenson is a pupil of Prof. Walter J. Mulford, of Philadelpia, who is well known here, and under whose skillful instruction she is fast developing into a cultured vocalist. At the conclusion of the exercises the choir was treated to refreshments by the Music committee of the church. Following are the names of those who participated in the cantata: Misses Dora Douglass, Ruth Stephenson, Flora Cook, Annie M. Myers, Beulah Stradling, Mellie York, Ella Warwick, Clara Kelly, Laura Barton, Sallie Hibbs, Lizzie Tomlinson, Laura King, Mattie Trudgen, Mrs. H. H. Poole, Mrs. James Boyce, Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. Worthington, Mrs. Wesley Bunting, Mrs. C. Wesley Milnor, Mrs. H. G. Young, Mrs. George Vanzant, Harry Bunting, Wesley Bunting, James Guy, C. M. Foster, John Heslop, James Boyce, Harry York, H. G. Young, Harry Daniels. Musicians, Miss Lucy Scoy, organist; Henry Stephenson, violin; Thomas Groves, William Lafferts, clarionette.

Edward Wilkinson has left the employ of S. C. Childs and has obtained a situation as fireman on the Pennsylvania railroad.

A REMINISCENCE.

ARTHUR DORRANCE WRITES CONCERNING THE OLD BRISTOL BASE BALL CLUB WHICH FLOURISHED IN THE SIXTIES.

Camden, N. J., June 30.

Editor Gazette:—While rummaging over some old papers I came across the original verses, copy of which I enclose with a few recollections; they were composed by the late Henry G. Booz. The Glee Club mentioned consisted largely of members of the Bristol Base Ball Club; the entertainment was given in Washington Hall in the room now occupied by "The Gazette."

I have forgotten the remainder of the programme with but a single exception, I remember that George Burk (son of the late Ford B. Burk) a strapping big fellow, was scheduled to sing a song entitled "The Traitor That Brought These Hard Times Upon Me." You will understand that this concert was held in the sixties not very long after the surrender, and the effects of the war were being felt in a marked degree and a good deal of hard feeling existed.

I recall that George failed in his first attempt, which was in order early on the programme, on account of forgetting his lines; so he was excused for the time being and permitted to have another chance to sing his song later in the evening; he finally braced up and got through all right.

The old Ball Club held its meetings in the building recently converted into a Post Office: the playing grounds were on Washington street between Cedar and Pond. The catcher's position backed up against the fence of a live Irish woman, and every time the ball went in her back yard (which was frequently the case) "There was the dickens to pay and no pitch hot." In fact I well remember that she kept up an incessant clatter with her tongue and gyration with her arms from the time we commenced to play until we left the grounds. This was a daily occurrence.

There was a little friction existing also on the way to the grounds. It was the habit of us boys to pass the ball from hand to hand on our way up Radcliffe street, and no one ever took exception to this practice until we reached the corner of Radcliffe and Penn streets, where "Uncle" Joe Jenks resided, and he was always sitting at the front window. He was a very corpulent man and it was difficult for him to stir about much, but he had a voice equal to his size. Well, up would go that window and out would pop his fist, and the "roasting" he would give us every day could be heard for two blocks.

None of the original first nine remain in Bristol, and most of them have gone to the Great Silence, as has also our old and respected friend Mr. Jenks. I recall the following players as embracing the nine: Horace Corey—J. Frank Rogers—John Clibbon Tabram—A. F. & H. D. Young—Linford Hutchinson. The pitchers were Walter S. Spackman, who delivered a straight arm under-hand square pitched ball very swift, and I consider that he ranked in the Dick McBride (Old Athletics) class. We by the way were honored by a visit from the Athletics and they did us up in great shape.

John D. Callanan was another pitcher who classed high in those days. I have good cause to remember his strong arm, as upon one bright, sunny, cloudless morning I was amusing myself by throwing up a ball and catching it, on the river front where B. F. Gilkeson's house now stands. Well, along came Callanan with an arm full of morning papers; he dropped the papers and threw the ball up until it looked no larger than a walnut; I was expected to catch it upon its descent. Well, it never touched my hands in its downward course, but lit fair and square upon the bridge of my nose. I would casually state that I made an early start before the regular breakfast hour for several mornings in my boat on fishing trips, etc., and never returned until after the evening repast was over; hence my dear mother did not have an opportunity to interview me until the inflamation had subsided.

In these days there were no restrictions upon the number of balls to be delivered by the pitcher; the batsman asked for a knee-high, waist-high or shoulder-high ball and remained in position until he obtained such, but when such a ball as he called for was delivered, if he did not strike it he was charged with a strike. It was also a condition at that time that a foul ball caught on first bound retired the batsman. I occasionally officiated behind the bat, about eight or ten yards behind, as it was not healthy to stand close to the batsman in those days with such a delivery as Spackman sent in, as there were no masks or chest protecters invented. When the batsman reached first base he was generally good for the second bag also.

John Drew visited the town with the Chippewas and afterward joined the Bristol Club, and played position as short stop.

A very promising season for our Club, to which we had looked forward with pleasurable anticipations, was curtailed on account of the untimely death of Linford Hutchinson. The Club chartered a tug to visit Riverton to play that club; during the trip down the river a heavy thunder storm came upon us and the temperature dropped very decidedly. As it was extremely warm when we started, no coats were taken along and we all got pretty well chilled, and it was thought by many that Mr. Hutchinson's end was hastened by this trip. He was very popular and our sorrow was great; all engagements were cancelled for several weeks, and in fact I think the Club was never so prosperous afterward.

There were other members of the Club who took an active part in its games or its management, and who are still factors I am happy to state in the business and professional arena; Harry Louderbough, Joseph Swain, Allen D. Gilkeson and Leo Landreth; one of this quartette it was alleged was in love with a girl at that time, and his parents thinking him too immature to consider matrimony, sent him abroad to finish his education. So we lost the services of a very promising player.

I have never forgotten the visit made to Bristol by some of the exponents of the game who lived on the river bank at Burlington. They came over with a very exalted manner just to give us a few points on the game. There were not nine of them, it was not necessary for that many to come; it was too easy a proposition. Well, if you could have seen the crestfallen countenances of those fellows when they returned it would have made you sad. They did not make a run off Spackman's pitching. If I recall aright they did not make a hit.

There was another Club in Bristol; what it was organized for I cannot say, unless it was to take the conceit out of the Bristol aristocrats. The club was named for Walter Livingston, who lived on Otter street, and who contributed freely to its support; hence it was called "The Livingston Base Ball Club;" Their membership embraced the following that I can recall: Ed. and Polk Parry, Budd Doble, Hazel Hibbs, Nelson Green, Jonathan Wright, Henry Hibbs, A. R. Percy; and I am under the impression that W. H. H. and James Fine's credentials would not require close inspection.

Anyhow, the Livingston Club's rendezvous was Fine's Hotel on Bath street, where victories were celebrated and defeats drowned. Those were happy days!

You may be approached by some imposters who claim they should be mentioned in this epistle, but pay no attention to them Mr. Editor, they are only base ball gold bricks; I have named the genuine goods. ARTHUR DORRANCE.

Opening song for the concert by the Young Men's Glee Club of Bristol for the benefit of the Bristol Base Ball Club. Tune Litoria.

Good evening friends we greet you here
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
Your presence doth our effort cheer
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
To please and satisfy we'll try
Hurrah for Bristol Base Ball Club.
Don't view us then with critic's eye
While we sing for the Bristol Club.

Cho.—Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
Hurrah for Bristol Base Ball Club
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
Hurrah for the Bristol Club.

Of Bristol Base Ball Club we boast,
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
And sing "Excelsior" as their toast,
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
Though Chippewa did them defeat,
Hurrah for Bristol Base Ball Club,
And Princeton did the same repeat
Still we sing for the Bristol Club.

Cho.—Hurrah! Hurrah! etc.

But when we look at the other side,
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
Our Club's success can't be denied,
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
The Livingston's they sorely beat,
Hurrah for Bristol Base Ball Club,
And lowered Burlington's conceit,
An honor for Bristol Club.

Cho.—Hurrah! Hurrah! etc.

Next Tullytown came quite elated,
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
But they returned—annihilated,
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
At Riverton success they found,
Hurrah for Bristol Base Ball Club,
And thus they pitched and batted round,
Our Bristol Base Ball Club.

Cho.—Hurrah! Hurrah! etc.

The Club's desire was richly found,
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
Upon the Gymnast, (Chippewa) ground,
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
Those honored Chieftains fought but see,
Success for Bristol Base Ball Club
Old Bristol gained the victory,
Hurrah for Bristol Club.

Cho.—Hurrah! Hurrah! etc.

With honor and success may they,
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
Continue on each day to play,
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
And to maintain their envied fame,
Hurrah for Bristol Base Ball Club,
And thus your good opinion claim,
For the Bristol Base Ball Club.

Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
Hurrah for Bristol Base Ball Club,
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
Hurrah for the Bristol Club.

Excuse the haste,
Also the taste
'Tis all a waste
Time and paper, ink and paste.

Bristol Houses a Good Investment.

Bristol mill owners report their inability to secure sufficient help, and give for reason that there are no houses for rent. If this is the state of affairs now, what will it be when the additions to plants are completed. We have both lots and houses for sale at reasonable prices, in the choicest section of the town, and will build as rapidly as we find sale for the finished properties.

IN THE HOTEL ... CORRIDOR

By MARY WOOD

Copyright, 1900, by the S. S. McClure Company

She sank into the depths of the velvet chair with a sigh of satisfaction. The long hotel corridor was alive with light and color. Women passed with soft swish of silk and breath of perfume. Masses of lilies and gleaming palms merged with rich, dark hangings to form a fitting background.

This—this was the life for which she was intended—richness and beauty to delight her artist's eye, luxury to satisfy her love of ease! She had striven hard to attain it, giving the hours of daylight to her easel and the longer hours of the night to feverish planning. And yet she was where she had started. With scornful smile, she glanced down at her modest dress The only mark which linked her to these surroundings was the great bunch of violets rising and falling on her breast. Her face did not soften as they met her eye. They were none of her procuring. He had sent them, and their wearing only seemed one more link in the chain by which he sought to bind her to him.

He was late, or she was early—which? Never mind. It would give her time to think and to decide

The soft strains of a distant stringed orchestra calmed her as her mind reviewed her five years of city life. The first year, when labor was sweetened by girlish enthusiasm; the next, when hope was wandering and grim necessity spurred her on; the next—but why live over their pain? It was enough to say that she had failed. And yet she had worked. How she had worked!

The last four months had told a different tale—she had tried to drown her ambitions in the excitement of life in artistic Bohemia. That, too, failed her.

"I AM GOING HOME WITH AUNT MILLIE," SHE SAID.

Yet it had brought him to her, to her feet. The thought gave her not even a throb of gratified vanity She told herself she was past even that Since love and hope were dead, why not let this man buy their ashes? He could at least give her the creature comforts that she craved. Yes, she would marry him.

She started and looked around fearfully, as if that "yes" had been spoken for the ears of greedy listeners But the stream of hotel life rolled calmly on. As she looked down the corridor her heart gave a throb. Was that figure a part of her dreams of the past? It was an old lady in all the glory of new black silk and shiny gloves, yet strangely old fashioned and out of place among the throng. The girl started to her feet. It was Aunt Milly.

She went forward breathlessly, her eyes fixed on the dear face, her hands outstretched almost appealingly.

The old lady saw her now, gazed wide eyed and in another moment was kissing her on both cheeks as she murmured brokenly, "Oh, Janie, Janie!" And then, in a minute, "What a happy day this will be for John!"

Tears had come to the girl's eyes at sound of that childish name. Now she flushed and paled as she said almost in a whisper: "John! Does he remember me?"

The old lady had hold of her hand as if fearful of losing it, and Janet led her gently to the big chair and nestled down beside her.

"Remember you? Haven't we spoken of you almost every day since you went away? You stopped writing after awhile, and that was hard." There was reproach in her gentle voice.

The girl interrupted brokenly: "Yes, I know. But there was so little of good to tell."

"Then you changed your boarding place, and our letters were returned unopened by the postoffice. We did not know where to find you."

The lowered lashes could not hide the tears as Janie answered: "When I left the home you had given me so kindly, so generously, I had high hopes I was going to become famous and repay everything. I promised you this, and I could not bear to write until I could redeem the promise. It was all my pride. But I loved you still. You believe that?" She looked up entreatingly.

The old lady patted her hand in a comforting way. "Just as we kept on loving you," she said soothingly, "and we kept trying to find you. John came up to the city several times on purpose. I didn't have to ask the poor boy how he fared when he came back each time. I could tell by his face. He's grown a lot older since you went away."

The girl looked down the corridor with eyes all dull to its late envied beauty. John still remembered her! After all her unkindness and neglect he had hunted for her!

Her companion was looking at her with fondly critical eyes. "You are a bit thinner, but you look much better than I expected. Why, your cheeks are just as pink as they used to be!"

The girl's cheeks burned under her rouge. She caught her breath sharply. Then she said faintly, "Oh, I am very well!" To herself she was saying fiercely: "I had to! I had to! I was growing so white and weary looking. He would not have liked me any more. Perhaps John won't like me any more when he sees me." Yet she longed to brush the color from her cheeks.

The old lady was going on happily "John said I must come with him this time. I had not been in the city for so many years. And I guess he remembered what a master hand I am for finding things. And now I have found you," she added joyously, "I am not going to let you go Just to see his face when he meets you! You are going right home with us and see how fine my Easter lilies are and pick the first spring violets on the sunny bank by the sitting room window. They will be sweeter than those you have on"

Janie's hands crushed the flowers on her dress as she asked eagerly, "You will let me come?"

"Let you come! We ought never to have let you go. John has said that many a time. Come! John must be in our room by this time. Oh, just to see his face!"

The girl passed her handkerchief roughly over her cheeks The telltale color was gone. Thank God! That was the worst! She stood up proudly. She could go back—back to the quiet haven and the love of a good man.

The old lady clasped her hand as they started down the corridor Suddenly the girl was conscious that a man barred her path—a man who stared in speechless astonishment. She had forgotten her appointment.

He hardly recognized this radiant creature. He had never been able to bring this look to her face.

She started when she saw him, but her voice never faltered as she said gently. "I am sorry, but I cannot see you today. I am going home with Aunt Milly" Then, as his cold, worldly face woke first to anger, then to appeal, she added joyously, "I am going home with her—and—John"

He could not doubt the evidence of face and voice, and no words came to his lips as he watched them go slowly down the corridor.

SECONDHAND SMOKES.

Selling Cigar Stubs Is a Lucrative Business in Naples.

Buying and selling cigar stubs is a large and lucrative business in the city of Naples, and many persons are engaged in it. Some of them have little stalls or shops near the docks, the arsenals and the manufacturing establishments where workingmen are in the habit of passing to and from their tasks. Others, with less capital, have little stands at street corners, a board laid across a saw horse, upon which their stock in trade is displayed, while the petty dealers in this line of business exhibit their stock in little piles upon the sidewalk, sometimes not even a newspaper being under them.

The supply comes from the cafes, restaurants, hotels and other public places. Men and women pick over the garbage heaps and the dust boxes, and boys run up and down the pavements in front of the hotels early every morning looking for "snipes" Some of the restaurant and cafe keepers sell the privilege of picking up the cigar stumps in their places to dealers, and the proceeds amount to a considerable sum during the year In other places it is one of the perquisites of the head waiter.

Some of the stubs are taken to factories, where they are cut up and manufactured into cigarettes and smoking tobacco, but the greater part of them are sold to the lower classes of workingmen, sailors and dock wallopers, who smoke them in their pipes. At the entrance of the navy yard, which is upon one of the most frequented streets in Naples and in a very conspicuous place, half a dozen of these secondhand cigar dealers can be found when the men are coming out of the gates at the close of their day's work. The employees are not allowed to smoke inside, and their wages do not permit them to indulge in the luxury of cigars or even smoking tobacco at first hand, so, for a centissimo, which is the smallest coin imaginable—one-fifth of 1 cent—they buy a cigar stub, crumble it up in their hands and cram it into their pipes.—Chicago Herald.

A Lesson In Public.

A neat little lesson was administered in a Broadway car the other day at the hands of a tall, good looking young girl.

The seat was crowded, but her neighbor, fat, cross and middle aged, was evidently bound to have as much room as he considered he had paid for, so he wedged himself firmly back, then jammed her with his elbow that he might spread his paper to its utmost width. She stood the crowding and the flapping of the leaves in her face for a few moments, then rose to her feet and took hold of the strap

"Do take it all," she said tranquilly. The car had stopped, and her clear, courteous voice easily traveled its entire length. There was a sympathetic smile on every face. The monopolist scowled, rattled his paper and stood it for a few moments, then, ugly and resentful, he left the car.

He had learned nothing, but every other man present read his paper in sections no wider than his shirt front all the rest of the way.—New York News.

A Deadly Revenge.

"So you sent Bill Smiggins to congress."

"We did," answered the keeper of the postoffice and general store. "I guess I did as much as any one to get him elected."

"Bill is a powerful talker, but I didn't know that you were any particular friend of his."

"No. We had a difference long years ago, and I always said I was goin' to get even. Bill prides himself on his speechmakin', and nothin' makes him so unhappy as to have somethin' doin' and him not in it. I've been reliably informed that when a man makes his debut in congress the people that have been there for some time previous look down on him kind of supercilious and make him sit quiet and listen, and that will jest about kill Bill!"—Washington Star.

A Curious Structure.

On the road from Clifton downs to Avonmouth the traveler will pass, in the Avon gorge, a curious structure to which a singular tradition is attached, relates the London Tatler. The story is that a person named Cook about a century ago was told by a gypsy in the Leigh woods that his only son would be killed by a serpent before he reached the age of twenty-one. To avert this he built a high tower and shut his son in the topmost room with the intention of secluding him there until the fatal age was passed. However, by accident a viper was taken up in a fagot to the room to light the fire, and it crept from the fagot and bit the boy so that he died. Therefore the tower was called Cook's folly, and that is its name to this day, whatever is the true explanation.

Two August Tours to the Pacific Coast at Greatly Reduced Rates via Pennsylvania Railroad.

On account of the low rates authorized by the transcontinental lines to the Pacific Coast during the summer, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will run two high grade personally-conducted tours to the Pacific Coast by special trains of the highest grade Pullman equipment. Both tours will leave New York August 2, visiting Chicago, Denver, Colorado Springs Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Del Monte (Monterey), Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, San Jose, and Portland on the going trip.

Returning Tour No. 1 will run northward from Portland and eastward through the magnificent Canadian Rockies by leisurely daylight trips, with stops at Glacier, Banff Hot Springs, and other points, reaching New York and the East via St. Paul and Chicago on August 31.

Tour No. 2 will run eastbound from Portland over the Northern Pacific Railway to Cinnabar, where the special train will be sidetracked while the passengers make the usual six-day trip of the Yellowstone National Park. From the Park the route homeward will be via St. Paul and Chicago, arriving New York September 4.

Rates from New York, Philadelphia, Washington, or any point on the Pennsylvania Railroad east of Pittsburg, including transportation, Pullman berth, and all meals on the tour except during the five days spent in San Francisco, when Pullman accommodations and meals are not provided:—

For Tour No. 1, $200. Two persons occupying one berth, $180 each.

For Tour No. 2, $250, including all expenses through Yellowstone Park. Two persons occupying one berth, $230 each.

A preliminary announcement outlining the various details is now in course of preparation, and will be furnished as soon as ready upon application to Geo. W. Boyd, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Pennsylvania Railroad, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

Acts Immediately.

Colds are sometimes more troublesome in summer than in winter, it's so hard to keep from adding to them while cooling off after exercise. One Minute Cough Cure cures at once. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, throat and lung troubles. J. E. Wright, Central Pharmacy.

The Best Liniment for Strains

Mr. F. H. Wells, the merchant at Deer Park, Long Island, N. Y., says "I always recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm as the best liniment for strains. I used it last winter or severe lameness in the side, resulting from a strain, and was greatly pleased with the quick relief and cure it effected. For sale by Emlen Martin.

Poisoning the System.

It is through the bowels that the body is cleansed of impurities. Constipation keeps these poisons in the system, causing headache, dulness and melancholia at first, then unsightly eruptions and finally serious illness unless a remedy is applied. DeWitt's Little Early Risers prevent this trouble by stimulating the liver and promote easy healthy action of the bowels. These little pills do not act violently but by strengthening the bowels enable them to perform their own work. Never gripe or distress. J. E. Wright, Central Pharmacy.

Caution!

This is not a gentle word but when you think how liable you are not to purchase for 75c the only remedy universally known and a remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of Consumption and throat and Lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Boschee's German Syrup There are many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for severe Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup and especially for Consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup Sold by all druggists in the civilized world.

G. G. GREEN., Woodbury, N. J.

Vacation Days.

Vacation time is here and the children are fairly living out of doors. There could be no healthier place for them. You need only to guard against the accidents incidental to most open air sports. No remedy equals DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for quickly stopping pain or removing danger of serious consequences. For cuts, scalds and wounds. "I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for sores, cuts and bruises," says L. B. Johnson, Swift, Tex. "It is the best remedy on the market." Sure cure for piles and skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. J. E. Wright, Central Pharmacy.

A Cure for Summer Complaint.

Summer complaint is usually prevalent among children this season. A well developed case in the writer's family was cured last week by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy—one of the best patent medicines manufactured and which is always kept on hand at the home of ye scribe. This is not intended as a free puff for the company, who do not advertise with us, but to benefit little sufferers who may not be within easy reach of a physician. No family should be without a bottle of this medicine in the house, especially in summer time—Lansing, Iowa, Journal. For sale by Emlen Martin.

Mother Always Keeps it Handy.

"My mother suffered a long time from distressing pains and general ill health due primarily to indigestion," says L. W. Spalding, Verona, Mo. "Two years ago I got her to try Kodol. She grew better at once and now, at the age of seventy-three, eats anything she wants, remarking that she fears no bad effects as she has her bottle of Kodol handy." Don't waste time doctoring symptoms. Go after the cause. If your stomach is sound your health will be good. Kodol rests the stomach and strengthens the body by digesting the food. It is nature's own tonic. J. E. Wright, Central Pharmacy.

"I am using a box of Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets and find them the best thing for my stomach I ever used," says T. W. Robinson, Justice of the Peace, Loomis, Mich. These Tablets not only correct disorders of the stomach but regulate the liver and the bowels. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Emlen Martin.

A Good Reputation.

"The way to gain a good reputation is to endeavor to be what you desire to appear" That is precisely the manner in which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has gained its reputation as a cure for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. Every bottle that has ever been put out by the manufacturers has been fully up to the high standard of excellence claimed for it. People have found that it can always be depended upon for the relief and cure of these ailments and that it is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Emlen Martin.

The Same Old Story,

J. A. Kelly relates an experience similar to that which has happened in almost every neighborhood in the United States and has been told and re-told by thousands of others. He says: "Last summer I had an attack of dysentery and purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which I used according to directions and with entirely satisfactory results. The trouble was controlled much quicker than former attacks when I used other remedies." Mr. Kelly is a well known citizen of Henderdson, N. C. For sale by Emlen Martin.

Cut this out and take it to Emlen Martin's Drug Store and get a box of Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets. The best physic. They also correct disorders of the stomach. Price 25 cents.

Grasse and Perfumes.

Grasse, even in the opinion of sober historians, would appear to be one of those towns which are predestined to commercial prosperity, and, what is more, its inhabitants through the ages of its existence have shown themselves capable of benefiting by those gifts with which nature has been so prodigal. Omitting allusion to more remote periods, we have the authority of the historian Bouche for the statement that in 1180 all European countries provided themselves with soaps manufactured at Grasse, while the town was also famous for its oils. In 1420, as Masa informs us, its odorous essences, fine oils, exquisite fruits and renowned leathers were a source of great prosperity.

It may interest many to know that, according to the testimony of the greatest historical authority upon Grasse now living, nothing precise has as yet been discovered in the municipal archives relating to the origin of the perfumery works.—Gentlemen's Magazine.

His Speech.

"I wonder what he meant," said the man who had been trying to make a speech.

"What he said, very likely," some one suggested.

"Yes, I know, but he said my flow of words was continuous without continuity."—Chicago Post.

Hooligan's Birthday.

"Yis," said Hooligan as he stuck his piece of pipe between his lips and rolled some tobacco in his hands, "it's wanderful how toime flies. Yisterday Oi was only fifty-wan, an' today Oi'm fifty-too Got a match, Dougherty?"—Indianapolis Sun
